FRANCE TO USE ARMY AGAINST NAZI PUTSCH

Soldiers Held Ready To Move Into Saar Region
If Necessary.

PARIS, Oct. 30.—(AP)—France, stirred tonight by reports the German nazis were preparing a putsch in the Reich Saar region, were envisaging use of the French army should the nazis attempt to seize the territory. French soldiers will move in, said the foreign office, only if the League of Nations requests it, but the army was being trained to prevent border disturbances.

Anti-nazis in the Saar, who look to France for protection, informed Paris of fresh rumors that 15,000 Saar nazis now in labor camps across the German frontier were planning a putsch the night of January 13, 1935.

This is the date of the plebiscite in which residents will vote on whether they wish to return to the pre-war status of German possession, become a part of France, or remain under the jurisdiction of the League of Nations.

This putsch, according to the information reaching Paris, would be carried out regardless of the outcome of the plebiscite.

Meanwhile, Jakob Pitto, nazi leader in the Saar, was warned by the League's superior plebiscite tribunal he would be arrested if he again used "violent language" in exhorting the population to vote for Germany.

He recently issued a circular stating that the Saar would become "a haven of assassins" if it remained under the present League government after the plebiscite.

NEW ORGANIZATION IN ITALY TAKES IN BOYS FROM 6 TO 8

ROME, Oct. 30.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini today carried the fascist education of youth one step nearer to the cradle by creating the ballia of wolf organization for boys between the ages of six and eight years.

The present ballia organization begins at the age of eight and runs to 14 years. The ballias of wolf wear black shirts and gray and green shorts.

Nothing has been said regarding the compulsory nature of the new group, but newspapers said it will embrace about 1,500,000 boys, which is approximately the number of Italian boys between those ages.

INSURANCE DEFENSE CITES MANIPULATIONS OF U.S.

Stocks Transactions of Former Magnaate and Government Term Alike.

CHICAGO, Oct. 30.—(AP)—Subtle differences between "maintaining" and "padding" markets were argued at the Insull trial today as the co-defendants of Samuel Insull, former utilities magnate, claimed their stock manipulations were "exactly the same" as the federal government used to protect its bonds.

The prosecution had charged that Corporation Securities Company, peak of the collapsed Insull pyramid, had been used as a "dummy ground" for worthless stocks and market prices had been "rigged" to lure investors.

Counsel for four officials of Halsey Stuart Company, all seeking directed verdicts, acquittal, argued the government did the same when it "maintained" a market for $74,000,000 in Home Owners' Loan Corporation bonds and that in 1919 the secretary of the treasury issued a statement in support of such practices.

"A group of financiers," Harry S. Ditchburne, counsel for the Halsey Stuart group, argued, could not have handled together fraudulently to maintain a market in support of their own stock when all about them the government was protecting and stabilizing the market on its own Liberty bond and other issues.

"What was illegal about maintaining a market?" Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson interrupted him.

"But the government paid off in cash on its Liberty bonds and not in stock dividends, did it not?" he inquired.

Ditchburne admitted it had.

The city's big relief project, to attempt to force FERA workers to lay down their tools and strike in protest against cuts in relief funds and pay.

Sheriff James Higgins said tonight he would give the workers on the mountain all the help they needed, if necessary calling Denver police.

Workers Erect Barricade.

The workers tonight had erected a huge barricade of loose stone and said they would defend their mountain-side position.

The riot broke today after a committee calling itself the general strike committee of the allied workers called upon Governor Ed C. Johnson yesterday and declared unless its demands were met, there would be violence.

Governor Johnson, without authority in relief matters in this state, referred them to C. D. Shawver, state relief administrator, whose discharge was one of their demands. Shawver declined to meet the committee.

Today the motorized column of the group, which called the strike yesterday, went to the Platte river project. Headed by a fife and drummer, they pushed through three policemen and marched through the area, wrestling picks and shovels from workmen and throwing them into the river.

Sergeant Henry Tarkenton seized a leader and started to push him across a dusty, weedgrown flat to the streets—a distance of 250 yards. The city patrol wagon, loaded with officers, drove up and men piled out.

Officer, Prisoner Pursued.

Durkop, another patrolman and the prisoner were pursued by the crowd. When the relieving officers met the group, they turned and, thrusting their batons before them, backed slowly to the patrol, keeping the prisoner encircled. When the wagon was reached, the crowd, estimated at 200 men and women, became more enraged and suddenly broke through the circle to snatch at the prisoner.

"Kick the Cosacks!" was the cry. Then Patrolman C. V. Satt, young police officer, went down in the dust. His condition tonight was critical. His skull was badly fractured.

First guns were on hand but the embattled officers used only their pistols. They opened fire, aiming low and into the clinging dust which now completely concealed their opponents.

There were women in the crowd and children.

Dispersed for the morning, the group gathered at 2 p. m. for a previously scheduled meeting. Surrounded by officers, some 500 men and women, accompanied by many children, held an hour and a half meeting, at which scores of speakers talked.

There were fights here, too, when hecklers interrupted, and H. B. Rankin, a FERA foreman, was felled by a police club when he and Bob Clark, an employee, began a fight.

Praising Mr. Woolford as an "exceptional type of man," Mayor Key nominated him as the first citizen of Atlanta, and his nomination was given the rising endorsement of those present. He praised the honor guest's services to others.

Speaking on behalf of Governor Eugene Talmadge, who was unable to attend because of his absence from the city, Mr. Howell declared Mr. Woolford's life had meant something to Georgia. He expressed the hope that Mr. Woolford would be able to serve his state for many more years.

Mr. Woolford's benefactions to the public schools of Atlanta were narrated by Mr. Sutton, who said he was responsible for starting the public health clinic in the Atlanta schools. The clinic idea has since spread over the country and Mr. Sutton said, Mr. Woolford has the gratitude of 300,000 school children of Atlanta for his inauguration of the program.

Mrs. Max E. Land, president of the Atlanta Woman's Club, who presided, read telegrams from Major Clark Howell Jr., general manager of The Constitution, and Congressman Robert Ramspeck, expressing their regret at being unable to attend the dinner. Both Major Howell and Congressman Ramspeck praised Mr. Woolford in their messages.

During the dinner, Mrs. Land expressed the appreciation of the Woman's Club for the publicity given their activities by the three newspapers.

Celebrated Jewish Names Brought Into Protocol Trial

By JOSEPH E. SHARKEY.
BERNE, Switzerland, Oct. 30.—(AP)—An expert appointed by the court today unhesitatingly denounced the notorious "protocols of the Elders of Zion" as apocryphal, as Jewish leaders continued their legal battle to show the world Jewry has no ambitions for world domination.

Mincing no words, C. A. Loosi, Berne author and the court's expert, declared in his report that the protocols, which previous witnesses for the plaintiffs have declared forgeries, belonged to the category of "scandalous literature of the worse species." Earlier these roused courtroom, enthralled by the amazing ramifications of the fight to clear Jewry of its foes' charge that it is plotting to rule the world, heard celebrated names mentioned in testimony for the plaintiffs.

Sarah Bernhardt, famed actress, and the celebrated French and Spanish dancers, Saharet and Otero, were mentioned in testimony that further extended the amazing ramifications of the trial in which the plaintiffs seek to disprove charges, based on the protocols, that Jewry plans any world hegemony.

Counsel for the plaintiffs presented photographic copies of archives in Moscow having to do with publication of the protocols in Russia under the alleged direction of the Russian writer, Nilus, described in previous testimony as imbued with the spirit of an anti-Christ.

Sergius Swatukow, official under the Kerensky regime, whose testimony provided yesterday's sensation, was recalled to the stand and testified that the archives revealed Nilus wanted to include references to Bernhardt, Saharet and Otero in his book dealing with the protocols. Censorship of the old imperial regime prevented, however, Swatukow said.

While the crowd jamming the courtroom, including many noted Jews of the continent, craned necks and cupped hands behind ears so as to lose none of his testimony, Swatukow said the archives revealed that Nilus, presumably inspired by the Russian secret agent Rachowsky, wanted to depict Madame Bernhardt as a great Jewish actress who would "charm Christians."

The purpose, it was indicated, was to create belief that world Jewry wanted to make use of the actress to advance Israel's domination.

Reasons for bringing Saharet and Otero into the matter were more obscure, Swatukow testified, since they presumably were not Jewesses.

References to other world personalities also were eliminated from Nilus' work by the imperial censors, he said the archives revealed.

Testimony by Jewish leaders to show that the protocols were spurious received substantial support today when an expert appointed by the court returned the opinion the protocols were apocryphal.

To counteract this blow, the four defendants, among them the Swiss Nazi leader, Theodore Fischer, who also is serving as attorney for the defense, brought forth their star witness, Alfred Zander, of Basel, another Nazi who is a defendant in a separate case at Basel growing out of the protocols.

Admits Writing Article.

Zander admitted writing an article in the Nazi party organ, "Swiss National Front," affirming the authenticity of the document which, it has been contended, caused anti-Semitic policies of the Russian imperial regime, resulted in pogroms and gave rise to the Nazi activity against Jews.

He said he believed the protocols authentic because no one had complained of their falsity and because they had existed 14 years in the German language.

The Nazi writer admitted that certain passages in the protocols resemble the named essay, "A Dialogue in Hades Between Machiavelli and Montesquieu," written by Maurice Joly, French author, in 1864, from which the plaintiffs contend the protocols derived.

"Nevertheless," he said, "I am convinced that the protocols are as authentic as the Holy Scriptures themselves."

Disappointed at the non-appearance of the expert they had designated—Pastor Munchmeyer, of Oldenburg, Germany—defense attorneys today demanded another, asking the court to appoint Colonel A. D. Schweighausen, of Erfurt, Germany.

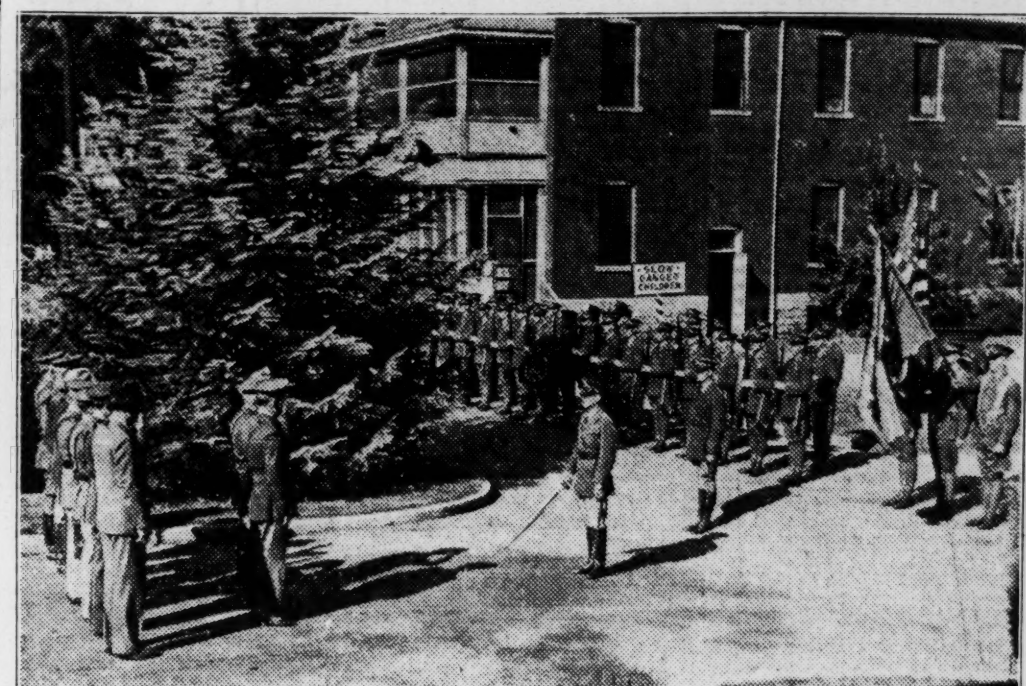

Reports were current here that Munchmeyer was held at a German concentration camp.

Stenographers Testify.

Two Basel stenographers who reported the famous Zionist congress held here in 1897 today testified that there was no question during that meeting of the protocols. Delegates merely discussed the Jewish national home in Palestine, they said.

Judge Mayer, presiding, asked one

Adjutants General Meet With Corps Head To Plan for 1935 Summer Training Periods

Plans for the annual summer training periods of the national guard organizations of the fourth army corps area next year were discussed at Fort McPherson Tuesday in a conference between Major General George Van Horn Moseley, the corps area commander, and the adjutant generals and the commanding officers of divisions of the area.

The conference, held at General Moseley's headquarters, also was given over to a discussion of the training of guardsmen under fire.

Following the conference the visiting officers were General Moseley's guests at a luncheon at his residence and Tuesday evening they were honored at a tea given by Colonel R. M. Bailey, the corps area national guard officer, and Mrs. Bailey at their home on Peachtree street.

Major General Henry D. Russell, of Mason, commanding officer of the 30th division and Major General Albert H. Blanding, of Bartow, Fla., commanding officer of the 31st division were the division commanders sitting in on the conference.

Adjutant generals, all of whom hold the rank of brigadier general, at the meeting were:

Harley A. Moon, of Montgomery, Ala.; Vivian Collins, of St. Augustine, Fla.; Lindley W. Camp, of Atlanta; Raymond H. Fleming, of New Orleans, La.; Thomas J. Grayson, of Jackson, Miss.; J. Van B. Metts, of Raleigh, N. C.; James P. Dozier, Columbia, S. C.; and J. R. Bailey, of Nashville, Tennessee.

MIAMI BEACH MAN FOUND MURDERED

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Oct. 30.—(AP)—The bullet-pierced body of Leon Bornstein, 32, bar owner, was found in the hallway of his apartment today under circumstances which led police to believe he had been shot down in gangster fashion.

Four bullets entered Bornstein's body. A shattered receiver hung at the end of his cord, indicating he had been shot down after answering a telephone. In the wall beside the instrument was one bullet hole.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 30.—(UP)—A stone slab tonight proved to be the outstanding attraction of an exhibit of rare coins of the world, on display here.

The "coin" weighs 14 pounds. It is from the Island of Yap. And it has real value there, according to authorities. A Yap islander, strolling into the village general merchandise store tugging such a coin can exchange it for 500 coconuts.

But the stone coin is only a fraction of the exhibit. Among the money is the depression wooden nickel of Washington. The buckskin dollar that originated in Enterprise, Ore., many years ago is included in the collection.

Miss Dorothy Cheney, in charge of the display, explains that the slang "buck" for $1 originated from the buckskin dollar.

A likeness of Cleopatra is clearly discernible on a gold piece displayed by the side of a silver Argian coin that was cast in the seventh century B. C.

The collection is part of the 40,000 pieces belonging to the Chase National Bank of New York city and loaned here for educational purposes.

A 5-rupee note of the state of Hyderabad, India, that was recovered from the ocean floor 400 feet under the surface, is included in the display.

Copies of interesting checks were exhibited. The first check known to authorities was shown. It was dated 1675. Among the other checks is one issued to Charles A. Lindbergh representing prize money for his trans-Atlantic flight.

Another, calling for payment of $12 cent, was never cashed. The largest industrial check calling for $148,000,000, was placed beside the unopened half-center.

MRS. VANDERBILT WEEPS ON STAND DURING TESTIMONY

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—(AP)—Mrs. Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt, pale and weak, broke down and cried on the witness stand in supreme court today when shown a picture of her 10-year-old daughter, Gloria, whose custody she is fighting to regain.

Staring straight ahead, Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, paternal aunt of the child, seemed to pay no attention to the breakdown of Gloria's mother. She is seeking to retain custody of the child, who is living at the Whitney estate on Long Island, charging that the mother is not a fit person to rear Gloria.

Mrs. Vanderbilt, accompanied by a nurse, testified for several hours, tears streaming down her cheeks intermittently. Her counsel, Nathan Burkan, who examined Mrs. Vanderbilt, handed her many documents during the course of her testimony. She will again take the stand tomorrow.

But the nature of the attractive widow's testimony was not disclosed. The public has been barred from the courtroom by Justice John F. Carew, who also has ruled that witnesses can not repeat their testimony outside of the courtroom.

For the present, at least, the young mother will be barred from disclosing her answer to the charges of her former servants that she had not properly conducted herself while the child was in her custody.

SMITH REYNOLDS' SON ENTERED IN LITIGATION

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., Oct. 30.—(AP)—Christopher Smith Reynolds, posthumous son of the late Z. Smith Reynolds and Mrs. Libby Holman Reynolds, today entered the litigation over disposal of his father's tobacco millions.

A petition asking that the baby son of the former Broadway favorite be allowed to intervene in the motion of the Cabarrus Bank & Trust Company to set aside a settlement made by Reynolds on his first wife and her child was filed with William E. Church, clerk of the superior court here, by Polikoff and McLennan and Graves, counsel for Mrs. Libby Holman Reynolds.

Church immediately appointed Robert C. Vaughn, of Winston-Salem as "next friend" of the baby and a hearing on the petition was set for next Monday before Judge P. A. McElroy.

The move brought the last of Smith Reynolds' heirs into the litigation, making the outcome binding upon all. Reynolds' brother and sisters and their children previously had been made parties to the action.

2 NEW DRUGS FOUND TO FIGHT MALARIA

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—(AP)—Encouraging new tests of two drugs recently developed for malaria treatment, atabrine and plasmodium, have been reported from Panama by public health service doctors.

They show that both drugs are valuable aids to treatment, although neither is a substitute for quinine or greatly superior to it. Used in combination, both drugs gave better results than quinine alone, however. The experiments were conducted in co-operation with the Panama health department and the Gorgas memorial laboratories.

OFF-YEAR HIGH SET IN REGISTRATION

47,949,928. Qualified To Vote in U. S. Elections Next Week.

(Copyright, 1934, by the Associated Press.) WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—(AP)—A high-voltage voter interest in next Tuesday's first nationwide test of the New Deal, with 47,949,928 men and women qualifying themselves to vote, was shown today by an Associated Press compilation.

This figure, unusually high for an "off-year" battle, was indicated in a gathering of registrations and official and unofficial estimates of voting strength in all the states which ballot November 6.

Although falling a million below the record registration brought about by the Roosevelt-Hoover presidential contest in 1928, the estimate is more than 5,000,000 above that for the Hoover-Smith election in 1928.

Two years ago the number of qualified voters as revised from latest statistics, was 48,962,530. The actual vote in the presidential contest was 39,791,886, a record. It compared with 38,798,660 votes cast in the 1928 race.

Many Contests. While the absence of a presidential contest this year is responsible for some falling off, spirited campaigns for senate seats, the governor's chairs in some states and hot races for the house of representatives in many districts, have spurred voters to qualify.

While the majority of states indicate an increased voting strength as compared with two years ago, a score of commonwealths show a falling off in qualified voters.

Despite the tense races in New York, that state's estimated voting strength this year is 4,786,000, more than half a million below the 1928 figure.

Gain in Pennsylvania. Pennsylvanians, who have hotly contested senatorial and gubernatorial races, have registered in even larger number than in the 1928 presidential year. The 4,322,241 registrations are 250,000 higher than in 1928.

Illinois, having no races for senator or governor, shows lagging interest in the congressional races. The indicated voting strength there this year, has dropped almost half a million, to an estimated 3,660,000.

California, with its intensive race for governor, shows a quarter of a million more voters have qualified this year than in the Roosevelt-Hoover race. Present registrations total 3,140,314.

Ohio, having both senatorial and gubernatorial races as well as congressional, seems to have less interest than two years ago. Indications are there will be 143,000 less voters this year, the total estimated voting strength being 3,327,900.

Fewer in Jersey. New Jersey's registration is smaller than two years ago by 57,000, with a total of 1,954,628. Massachusetts shows increased interest with an estimated strength of 1,850,000, or 54,000 more than two years ago, due to the contests for governor and senator.

Indiana, Michigan, Minnesota and Missouri, with voting strengths of more than a million each, show decreased interest this year.

Iowa, Kentucky, Texas and Wisconsin, also having more than a million qualified voters, have gained in indicated voting strength this year.

All citizens entitled to vote do not qualify. Many who qualify do not exercise their right of franchise. Of those citizens qualifying to vote, the percentage actually voting ranges from less than 50 per cent to more than 85 per cent. Of the 48,962,530 estimated to have qualified in 1932, only 39,493,442 (excluding Maine) voted.

Mrs. Roosevelt Seeks Mrs. Hoover's Picture

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—(AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt wants a portrait of Mrs. Herbert Hoover for the White House. It's virtually finished.

Mrs. Roosevelt disclosed last night she had asked Mrs. Hoover about the portrait at the Girl Scouts' convention in Boston last week.

"I asked her when we were going to get her portrait for the White House," Mrs. Roosevelt said, "and she laughed and said she had spent a great deal of time while she was in the White House trying to get the portraits of wives of former presidents and now apparently I was doing the same thing."

The portrait was painted by Miss Lydia Field Emmet, of New York, and is to be the gift of the Girl Scouts' organization in recognition of Mrs. Hoover's interest in that body.

HAUPTMANN VISITED IN N. C., U. S. BELIEVES

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Oct. 30.—(AP)—The Charlotte News today says that Bruno Hauptmann, charged with the kidnapping of the Lindbergh baby, is believed by the department of justice to have spent some time in Hendersonville under the name Ackerman or Ockerman about a month after the kidnapping.

Agents of the department are investigating the North Carolina end of the crime and the alleged criminal, the paper says.

"During his sojourn in North Carolina," the paper says, "Hauptmann was in the company of another man and a woman. He received several telegrams from New Jersey during his Hendersonville stay."

JONES AND WALLER CONTINUE AIR RACE

LONDON, Oct. 30.—(AP)—After being delayed by low pressure in the port engine, Cathcart Jones took off from Karachi, India, for Baghdad, Iraq, at 8 p. m. G. M. T. (3 p. m. eastern standard time) in his flight from Melbourne to London.

While he and Ken Waller, co-pilot, hurriedly made repairs and got out back along the trail they flew in the England-to-Australia Derby, the movement of the Melbourne bound derbyists was confined to Australia.

Delays at Karachi and at Port Darwin destroyed any chance Jones had of establishing a record flight.

C. J. Melrose, Australian, was en route from Melbourne to London.

3-DAY AUTO TOLL REACHES 6 DEATHS

Baby, 2, Hurlled From Mother's Arms, Dies; W. E. Shue, 26, Succumbs.

Two Atlantians who died Tuesday at local hospitals brought the three-day toll of deaths from automobile accidents to six, while scores, knocked down or injured in crashes, have been admitted to hospitals during the same period.

Little two-year-old James Pierce Hubbard, who was hurled from his mother's arms when she was struck while crossing the street in front of their home at 790 Austin avenue, N. E., at dusk Monday night, died early Tuesday morning at Grady hospital.

Wilbert E. Shue, 26, of 255 Chattahoochee avenue, East Point, died at a private hospital Tuesday morning of injuries received Wednesday night when his automobile crashed into a pole on Chattahoochee avenue near the Seaboard Airline railroad shops.

The death of the Hubbard child brings the total deaths from automobile accidents within the city limits of Atlanta during the year to 50, and the total fatalities for October to 10.

The Hubbard child, hurled from the arms of his mother, Mrs. Frances Hubbard, 21, when she was struck and fatally injured by an automobile driven by Arthur Wood, 22, negro, of 143-1-2 Auburn avenue, N. E., was thought to have been run over by a truck or automobile which was moving in the line of traffic.

While police Tuesday were interviewing witnesses to the accidents and checking the testimony against Wood's confession, Reuben Garland, Atlanta attorney, announced that he had been employed to assist in the prosecution of the negro.

Two Killed Sunday. The two deaths which Sunday inaugurated the wave of accidents which for two days struck terror in the hearts of Atlantians, were those of William Fort Williams, 81, prominent Atlantian and retired hardware merchant, and J. H. McCoy, 27, mechanic, of 770 Lexington avenue, both killed in accidents Sunday.

The deaths at Grady hospital of Mrs. Hubbard and of Mrs. Mary E. Jacobs, 75-year-old cripple, of 631 Etheridge street, knocked down and fatally injured as she attempted to cross Bankhead avenue, near Simmons street, Monday night, proved another surge of the fatal wave, which Tuesday claimed James Pierce Hubbard Jr. and Wilbert E. Shue.

Chief of Police T. O. Sturdivant Tuesday landed members of the evening watch who Monday night had apprehended Wood, driver of the car which killed Mrs. Hubbard, though the negro would not confess until after four hours of grilling. He urged all policemen to maintain vigilance to prohibit accidents and appealed to automobile drivers to exert every effort to avoid collisions. He said that more automobiles are crowding the streets daily and with the addition of each machine to Atlanta's swollen traffic, the menace of fatalities is increased.

Man Held After Crash. Radio patrolmen, cruising on Glenn street, S. W., early Tuesday morning arrested a man who said he was C. L. Meador, of 693 Cascade avenue, S. W., after he had crashed into the rear of a sanitary truck, slightly injuring two negro workers who were on the truck. Meador, according to police reports, attracted the attention of police when his automobile zigzagged from side to side on the street. He was charged with operating an automobile while intoxicated.

C. S. Cherry, negro, of 370 Rawson street, lost control of the motorcycle he was riding on McDaniel street at Gardner street Tuesday morning and crashed into a pole. He was treated at Grady hospital for cuts and bruises and was dismissed.

Sam Harrell, 330 Cascade avenue, S. W., also was injured while riding his motorcycle. It was struck on Cascade avenue near Connally street, Tuesday morning by an automobile driven by George Mort, of Lakewood avenue, according to police reports.

Three girls, Miss Annie Sanders, 18, 1353 North Highland avenue; Miss Nannette Horn, 18, 1129 St. Augustine place, and Miss Inez Johnson, 18, of 425 Sterling street, were slightly injured when they stepped off the curb at Peachtree and Elm streets into the path of an automobile driven by Mrs. Floyd McRae, 1238 Peachtree street, N. E., according to police reports. The girls were given treatment at Grady hospital for minor cuts and bruises and were dismissed. No case was made against Mrs. McRae, as the accident was held unavoidable.

ANTI-NAZIS WIN PARTIAL VICTORY

Hitler Decides To Take No Part in Evangelical Church Fight.

BERLIN, Oct. 30.—(AP)—A partial victory in their months-long fight against Reichsbishop Ludwig Mueller's anti church dictatorship was claimed by his opponents tonight after Adolf Hitler decided to let the Evangelical church fight its own battles.

The reichsfuehrer, facing an awkward choice between Mueller and his German Christian clique and rebellious church faithful fighting Mueller, received three opposition bishops headed by Hans Meiser, of Bavaria, to hear their outline of the blazing controversy.

After an hour and 45 minutes with the chancellor, the three emerged to say "we are quite satisfied" with Hitler's attitude.

They were represented as welcoming the leader's decision to keep hands off the church fight because henceforth they can fight their battles for religious freedom with their own weapons and because they feel that majority opinion ultimately will prevail against what they called Mueller's minority.

Secret Police Used. Reliable circles, recalling that Mueller used secret police to arrest scores of pastors and impounded church tax monies in an attempt to overcome his opposition, analyzed the situation this evening as follows:

Separation may be declared between the church and state so that the state will no longer collect church taxes and the government's agreement will not have to be obtained before various measures for appointment church officers are put into effect. Likewise the government in the future may not pay subventions to the church.

A further interpretation placed upon Hitler's unexpected and puzzling stand was that it would bring about a short period in which Mueller and his position will struggle for supremacy. Since the opposition claims 80 per cent of the Protestant membership and calls itself "The Established Church," Hitler was believed to have taken this means of approving the "transition," which may end in complete triumph for the opposition, instead of shelving Mueller outright.

Revolt Among Peasants. Spreading revolt among Hitler's stout peasant following confronted him with the unpleasant alternative of casting off trusted men to whom he assigned the task of unifying protestantism under the Nazi banner, or retaining them in defiance of large sections of the people on which he bases his power.

As the opposition henchmen conferred with Hitler, Nazi party pressure forced Dr. August Jaeger, who resigned last week as Nazi commissioner for Protestant churches in Prussia, to sever his remaining connections with Mueller's church cabinet.

Meanwhile, 30 Bavarian farmers, all stout Nazis and all the sturdy sort Hitler likes to say forms the backbone of his party, waited to tell their leader that 200,000 farmers in Bavaria believe Mueller's tactics are wrecking the Lutheran church. Back home hundreds of embattled peasants guarded churches and parsonages, fearing secret police acting on Mueller's orders might try to arrest their pastors.

Learn From Doctors How to Treat Colds

Four Points to Remember

As colds cause more loss of time and money than any other disease, every one should learn what modern medical science teaches as to their proper treatment. Your doctor has the following objectives:

First—To relieve the congestion in the nose and throat, thus aborting, or lightening the attack and relieving the symptoms caused by the congestion—Calotabs, the improved calomel compound tablets, accomplish this by attracting the excess blood to the bowels.

Second—To help the kidneys wash out of the blood the cold-poisons which cause the chilly sensation, feverishness, aches, and mean feeling—Calotabs are diuretic to the kidneys, assisting them in ridding the blood of the poisons.

Third—To expel the germ-laden mucus and toxins from the bowels, thus preventing their absorption into the blood—Calotabs accomplish this thoroughly.

Fourth—To keep the bile of the liver flowing freely through and out of the intestines, thus relieving the biliousness and constipation, which attend and aggravate a cold. As Calotabs contain calomel, they promote the flow of bile.

Thus, Calotabs meet these four important objectives of medical treatment for colds. One or two Calotabs at bed time, with a glass of sweet milk or water, is usually sufficient; but should be repeated the third or fifth night if needed. The milk tones down the action, making it milder, if desired.

Why risk doubtful or make-shift remedies? Get a family package of Calotabs containing full directions, only twenty-five cents; trial package ten cents, at your dealer's.—(adv.)

JAP ENVOY MOVES FOR NAVAL ACCORD

Another Approach to Agreement Proposed to Break Deadlock.

LONDON, Oct. 30.—(P)—Tsuneko Matsudaira, Japan's ambassador to Great Britain, moved today to break the deadlock gripping the five-power naval conversations here.

He visited Sir John Simon, British secretary of state for foreign affairs and member of his government's naval delegation, at the house of commons to propose another approach to an agreement.

Although the visit was secret, it was learned the ambassador indicated that the Japanese might give some guarantee that they do not want naval armaments equal to those of the United States and Great Britain in return for recognition of the principles of naval limitation.

Prime factor in the deadlock has been Japan's insistence on her right to equality, and it was believed this evening the Japanese now are willing to accept more general expression of the principle of equality in which case some face-saving clause may be offered them.

It was reported Sir John promised the soft-spoken Japanese delegate nothing, but Matsudaira left the meeting sufficiently pleased to induce him to pursue the subject further at the next meetings with the British and the Americans.

U. S. Move Surprises Tokyo.

Meanwhile, Japanese sources expressed surprise at reports from America that the United States may increase fortifications in the Pacific should the Washington treaty be junked and no new treaty approved.

Japan has long been aware that one of the consequences of such a situation would be increased fortifications by the British and the Americans, these sources said, since restrictions contained in Article 19 of the Washington treaty would no longer be effective. It was understood, however, that the Americans had made no specific reference to fortifications.

JAP NAVAL EQUALITY STAND IS DEFENDED BY SAITO

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—(P)—Hiroshi Saito, Japanese ambassador to the United States, asserted tonight that his country is demanding a navy equal to the strongest in the world because the Japanese insist their empire is the equal of any other nation.

Returning to Washington today from three months spent in Japan and Manchuria discussing naval and other questions of paramount importance in Pacific relations, Saito was outspoken at a press conference in outlining Japan's insistence on naval equality.

Japanese public opinion, Saito asserted, is deeply resentful of the existing 5-5-3 naval ratio. The people, he said, are aggressively demanding that the Japanese navy, at some time in the immediate future, be actually equal in fighting power to that of Great Britain and the United States.

In the preliminary bilateral naval discussions now in progress in London, Saito said, the Japanese delegates are simply expressing the firm attitude of the entire Japanese nation.

While not desiring to disturb existing world conditions, Saito said Japan nevertheless was frankly determined to insist that by progressive scrapping of offensive warships over a period of time the British and American navies be reduced to a size comparable with the Japanese navy.

BRECKENRIDGE LONG SAILS FOR AMERICA

Maryland Firemen Offering Curb Service

SALISBURY, Md., Oct. 30.—(P)

Now that they are bringing the fire to the firemen, the Salisbury volunteer firemen are giving curb service. A truckman started it. His vehicle caught fire near here. A passing motorist, noticing the blaze, inquired:

"Do you want me to call the fire department?"

"No, thanks," replied the truckman. "I'm going right by the fire house. I'll stop on my way."

With smoke and flame billowing from his machine, he drove nonchalantly through Salisbury to the firehouse.

Rubbing their eyes in surprise, the firemen swung the big doors open, hauled out the water hose and put out the blaze without moving the fire truck out of its tracks.

U. S. STEEL DECLARES PREFERRED DIVIDEND

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—(P)—United States Steel Corporation directors today ordered a dividend of 50 cents on the $7 cumulative preferred stock.

This rate has been paid quarterly on the senior shares since January, 1933, when payments were reduced from $1.75 quarterly.

The corporation reported total earnings of $3,708,863 for the third quarter of 1934 after ordinary operating expenses, against $21,082,380 for the second quarter and $11,816,832 for the September quarter last year.

After interest, depreciation, depletion and other expenses on iron ore, etc., there was a deficit for the quarter of $9,267,767 compared with a balance of $5,350,141 in the previous quarter and deficit of $2,717,014 in the third quarter last year.

After provision for the preferred dividend the total deduction from surplus for the September quarter was $11,028,172; in the June quarter there was a surplus of $2,848,396 while for the September quarter last year there was a deficit after dividend payment of $4,518,419.

The dividend on the preferred stock is payable November 23 to stock of record November 2.

Shipments of finished steel for the quarter ended September 30 amounted to 1,118,267 tons, compared with 2,373,409 tons for the June quarter.

With the payment of today's dividend accumulated dividend amount to $10 per share of preferred stock.

Operations in third quarter averaged 24 per cent of finished products and fell to 20 per cent during part of October. At present the rate is 22 per cent with indications of gradual continued betterment.

Exchange Opens Drive To Win Lost Prestige

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—(P)—The New York Stock Exchange has entered upon a comprehensive campaign to "sell" the exchange to the American public.

This was revealed today with the release for publication of a letter by Richard Whitney, president of the organization, to all members, partners, branch office managers and correspondents, asking their co-operation in a movement to win back for the exchange some of the prestige lost in the aftermath of the 1929 stock market collapse.

In his communication Whitney cast off all the aloofness and reserve which, according to critics of the exchange, formerly marked the attitude of the ruling powers toward the rank and file of members. He asked the members and branch office managers, particularly those in cities outside of New York, to express their loyalties for an appraisal of sentiment toward the stock exchange, and appealed to them for "your own free and frank views and suggestions."

J. J. HAVERTY, AT 76, PROUD OF ATLANTA HE HELPED TO BUILD

J. J. Haverty, Atlanta social, business and cultural leader and the city's foremost patron of the arts, Tuesday quietly celebrated his 76th birthday here in the city in which he was born and in the progress and development of which he has been a leading and strongly felt part.

Mr. Haverty, as he sat in his office Tuesday in the expensive retail furniture store which bears his name, looked back over those 76 years with a fond glance in his blue eyes. The gleam was not there when he told of his memories of the evacuation of Atlanta, but when he told how sturdy, undefeated pioneers had built in the ruins of the old Atlanta the new city that was the following century to be the greatest city in the southeast.

Mr. Haverty's eyes sparkled. He wasn't talking about himself. He didn't tell how he had contributed to the program for the city's upbuilding. He's at his best when he is telling what Jim Jack, Tom or Harry did for Atlanta. He has had to fight to get people to see things their way, but how they finally won out and carried the new city that much farther from the ashes toward the present-day Atlanta. J. J. Haverty won't have to tell what he did to help rebuild Atlanta from the ashes, for his deeds speak for themselves.

DONALDSON OPPOSES SEWAGE SLUDGE PLAN

It cost Milwaukee more than $500,000 to produce sewage sludge which sold for $280,000, the sewer committee of council was told Tuesday afternoon by Clarke Donaldson, chief of the construction department, and William A. Hansell, assistant chief.

Last week an auditor's report on the construction department pointed out that Milwaukee had received $280,000 for sludge while Atlanta only got $700 in 1933. Engineers told the committee Atlanta made more profit on its sale of the fertilizer than did Milwaukee.

The scheme suggested by the auditor as a possible source of revenue was declared unfeasible and the committee voted to notify Mayor Key of its findings.

SOUTHERN GIVEN RIGHT TO CONTINUE CUT FARE

The Southern railway has been granted permission by the interstate commerce commission to continue in effect its present low schedule of interstate fares until September 30, next year. It was announced here Tuesday by E. E. Barry, the road's assistant general passenger agent.

At present the fares are 11.2 cents per mile in coaches and 3 cents per mile in Pullmans. The rate was put into effect last year and would have expired December 31, if the I. C. C. permission for extension had not obtained.

The intrastate fares in Georgia remain the same, one and a half cents in coaches and two cents per mile in Pullmans.

DILLINGER ESCAPE SOLUTION CLAIMED

Repercussions Resulting From Investigation Rocks Indiana Politics.

CROWN POINT, Ind., Oct. 30.—(AP)—Repercussions resulting from an investigation of John Dillinger's sensational jail escape rocked Indiana politics today.

To republican critics who have attributed Dillinger's fantastic "wooden gun" getaway and the state prison break of 10 convicts to democratic introduction of the spoils system, Governor Paul V. McNutt recently replied that they would be silenced by impending developments in the investigation of Dillinger's escape.

Today J. Edward Barce, assistant attorney general, seized eight Lake county residents, carted them off to Monticello, 60 miles away, and there announced he had obtained from them information that he confidently expected would lead to the arrest of three persons on charges of aiding Dillinger in his escape.

Barce's action, however, provoked the ire of some democratic officeholders in Lake county who apparently feel that officials were shifting to them responsibility for the Dillinger fiasco.

The Lake county grand jury was in session and after conferring with Judge William J. Murray, of the criminal court, and Prosecutor Robert G. Estill, Allen P. Twyman, an attorney, went before the jury to ask an investigation of Barce's activities.

Twyman is attorney for Ernest Blunk, one of those seized by Barce. Blunk, fingerprint expert at the jail, was indicted by a grand jury last summer after an investigation of Dillinger's escape. Blunk was acquitted.

After Twyman had appeared this afternoon the grand jury adjourned to meet again a week from today.

Judge Murray and Estill were both severe in their criticism of Barce. Barce, at Monticello, was reticent concerning information he had obtained from the Lake county residents. He referred to them as "witnesses."

The assistant attorney general indicated he was attempting to establish that a conspiracy to free Dillinger was hatched in a Lake county beer parlor, and that the sum of $1,800 was paid to one person for blue prints of the jail and adjoining buildings to be furnished the desperado so he might plan his flight.

Cloudy and Warmer
Forecast for Today
Atlanta will exchange clear, cold weather for the warmer, cloudy variety today, according to Forecaster George W. Mindling.

Tuesday's temperature, with a range of 44 to 60 degrees, was not as cold as was expected, and the weatherman believes that today's temperature will be about the same, with extremes of 44 and 72 degrees.

A light frost prevailed here Tuesday morning, and even as far south as Macon, where a temperature of 38 degrees was registered, Augusta gave a reading of 40 degrees low; Savannah 50 degrees; Jacksonville 52 degrees; Gainesville 38 degrees, and Rome 35 degrees.

"MARTINI"—"Je Crois Entendre"
"Heart as a Drum," from Bizet's "Moussorgsky," will be Nino Martini's operatic aria during his half-hour program with Andre Kostelanetz's orchestra and chorus over the Columbia network and WGST commencing at 8 o'clock. The Metropolitan tenor will also sing Buzzi-Peccia's "Povero Pulcinella" (Poor Punchinello) and Cowles' oriental fantasy, "Forsaken Dawn." The quartet will contribute a medley of George Gershwin's tunes. Kostelanetz, whose taste for radio history, will blend the piece orchestra and assisting chorus in unusual renditions of four of the more popular tunes to counter-balance Martini's selections.
EXPLORER—With reception over the 10,000-mile short-wave relay from Little America varying from clarity to unintelligible whoops, an unpredictable confusion which lends the interest of the unexpected to the weekly contact with the Byrd expedition by the WGST-Columbia audience. Admiral Byrd will reveal his latest plans and findings during the broadcast this evening from 8:30 to 9 o'clock. A two-way conversation is slated for the program.
FOREIGN TRADE—The address of Richard Washburn Child, former ambassador to Italy, before the foreign trade convention in New York city, wherein he gathered 2,000 delegates representative of every branch of trading in the world markets, will be broadcast over WGST and the Columbia network this morning between 11:30 and 12 o'clock. Mr. Child is expected to discuss his recent trip to Europe in the light of international trade.
BACH—The music of Bach will be performed by the Curtis Institute players in the first of the "music history" series on this program, to be broadcast from 3:30 to 4 o'clock over WGST. The selections include the rarely performed C minor prelude and Fugue from "The Well-Tempered Clavier."
BRIEFS—Norman Thomas, socialist leader, will speak over WGST at 3 o'clock on "Our National Liberal Candidates." You may hear Kate Smith's hour-long variety program beginning at 2 o'clock—Harry Eastman, Evan Evans and Howard Barlow's orchestra in "Melody Masterpieces" from light classics, at 9:30 o'clock—and "The Courts, the Lawyer and the Public" at 7:30 o'clock.

MAGIC RADIO BRAIN
GETS MORE STATIONS
A "Magic Radio Brain" which, with almost human intelligence, selects and amplifies distant, foreign stations while rejecting interference and noise, has been incorporated in the new RCA Victor Globetrotter radio instruments, according to J. E. Waldrop, of Cable's radio department.
The "Magic Brain," which is already being hailed as one of the most important radio advances in years, was developed in the Camden, N. J., laboratories of the RCA Victor Company after many years of research and experimentation not only in the field of home entertainment, but in building short-wave radio apparatus for trans-oceanic and governmental communications services.
Until now, short-wave reception has been inherently more difficult than standard wave-band reception, said Mr. Waldrop. Now the Camden engineers have simplified the necessary tuning operations to the greatest possible extent. Not content with designing the now universally used full-tension airplane dial, they have devised an ingenious hand speaker tuning aid which in effect opens up the congested short-wave international bands so that they can be tuned in with ease. Then there is a micro-accurate tuning transmission which eliminates all lost motion and transmits the most delicate touch on the tuning knob directly to the tuning condenser.

HUGHES SPALDING
TO SPEAK ON RADIO
"The Duties and Responsibilities of a Lawyer to the Court and to the Public," will be discussed over radio station WGST by Hughes Spalding, member of the firm of Spalding, MacDougald & Sibley, at 7:30 tonight. Mr. Spalding's address will be the fourth of a series of radio talks presented by the Atlanta Bar Association. His talk is designed to acquaint the public as to a lawyer's responsibilities.
These radio addresses are being delivered each Wednesday at 7:30. On November 7, Harmon Caldwell, dean of the University of Georgia Law school, will discuss "The Standards of Admission to the Bar."

ROOSEVELT STIRS NEW SPECULATION

Mysterious Parley With Aids Brings Talk of An- other Monetary Move.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—(AP)—A mixed and somewhat mysterious conference between President Roosevelt and a varied group of his aids today stirred speculation in the capital as to whether some new administration financial or other move was afoot.

Finance, reciprocal trade treaties, and the dispute with Japan over oil all were described as the subjects of the single White House meeting. The conflict of reports spurred curiosity and gossip.

The participants were Secretary Morgenthau, his special assistant and advisor, Dr. Jacob Viner; Assistant Secretary Francis B. Sayre of the state department; Stanley Hornbeck, head of the state department's far eastern division, and Herbert Feis, economic expert of the same department.

Morgenthau said finances were discussed. A White House secretary asserted the group surveyed the progress of the negotiation of mutual tariff reduction pacts. From the state department came strong intimations the new restrictive oil laws in Japan and the Manchukuo oil monopoly were topics of conversation.

Beyond these brief and cryptic explanations, none was given. However, all three are of great importance currently. Feis's officials are preparing estimates for the budget which will be sent to congress in January; the state department is seeking to extend foreign markets through the treaties; and the Japanese-controlled oil monopoly was recently hit by the state department as a violation of the nine-power Pacific pact.

The oil dispute also has become involved, at least in speculation, with the naval arms reduction conversations at London. The possibility has been strongly advanced by observers that Japan is planning to use the oil situation, which fits in with her naval plans, as a trading point if and when something definite can be arrived at through the arms reduction discussions.

ATLANTA CONCERT OF CURTIS QUARTET DELAYED FOR TIME

Appearance of the Curtis String quartet, scheduled for the opening evening program of the Atlanta Music Club at the Atlanta Woman's Club building this evening, has been postponed.

Jascha Brodsky, first violinist, underwent an appendectomy Saturday, and all engagements of the quartet have been postponed pending his recovery. The ensemble will play in Atlanta within the next few weeks, it was said. Other members of the group are Benjamin Sharpe, second violin; Max Aronoff, viola, and Orlando Cole, violoncello.

The next program of the Atlanta Music Club will be held at 10:45 o'clock Wednesday morning, November 7, at the Woman's Club auditorium. Mrs. Howard C. Smith Jr., chairman, announced that the subject will be "Song Literature."

Inspection Fish for Rogers

L. M. Clough, head of the market department of Rogers Stores, and Roy Petree, of Green & Milam, in Norfolk, Va., inspecting the grade of redfin croakers to be sold in Rogers markets. While in Norfolk, Mr. Clough signed for Rogers the largest contract ever made by any concern in the south for a single variety of fish. Rogers will have a supply of these fish arriving each week during the season.

Dirigibles for Transoceanic Trips Urged Anew by Rear Admiral Cone

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—Continuing its inquiry in the field of lighter-than-air craft, the Howell aviation commission today heard recommendations from leaders in the shipping industry for government construction of a fleet of great commercial dirigibles to supplement our merchant marine.

At the same time views of the army and navy on the value of lighter-than-air craft as instruments of national defense were presented by air corps officials of the two departments.

Instead of attempting to compete with European nations in new types of ocean liners, Rear Admiral H. I. Cone, retired, chairman of the advisory committee of the United States shipping board, told the aviation body the government should build a series of airships suitable for transoceanic passenger and express service.

"After government construction of the airships," he said, "should be chartered to private shipping companies for the life of the ships."

In that way, he declared, the United States would assume world leadership in the aircraft industry, enabling us at the same time to recapture our lost position in the field of world shipping. The cost of one superliner of the type of the Queen Mary, recently launched in England, would permit the building of at least five airships, including all necessary terminal facilities, the witness asserted, adding:

"The United States will be left hopelessly behind unless we take steps for building airships to fill out our merchant marine. The government should build the airships under supervision of the navy department, then grant charters to some commercial shipping company for their operation. To the surprise of every one, these airships, accommodating from 75 to 80 passengers, would pay."

E. P. Farley, former chairman of the United States shipping board, and now actively engaged in the shipping business, told the commission, headed by Clark Howell, Atlanta Constitution publisher, that the airship offers the only opportunity for the United States to develop its merchant marine. Chairman Howell said the shipping companies would be glad to accept the airships if they were built in the United States.

Declaring that business operations of the American merchant marine are written in "red ink" today, Mr. Farley said the shipping companies would welcome the opportunity to co-operate with the government in establishing dirigible service to world markets.

U. S. Aid Said Vital.

Touching on the same subject, a third witness, William P. Gibbs, head of the New York naval engineering firm of Gibbs & Cox, testified that it is "absolutely necessary for the federal government to finance aircraft development" if we are to move forward in this field of transportation.

While approving government construction of lighter-than-air types of vessels for transoceanic service, Roland B. Respass, president of the Respass Aeronautical Engineering Corporation, Rhode Island, recommended that before any government airships are actually built the whole question of design and types be referred to the national advisory committee for aeronautics for investigation. He criticized existing types built by Goodyear Zeppelin Works, of Akron, Ohio, and the German Zeppelin company, declaring that further improvements in structural design are possible.

Appearing as the first witness of the afternoon session, Rear Admiral E. J. King, chief of the navy bureau of aeronautics, went on record in favor of continued government development of airships both for military and commercial use.

Said Valuable in War.

"With reference to large airships," said Admiral King, "while opinion is divided as to their national defense value, the majority opinion in quarters informed as to the capabilities of airships is that they can be of considerable military value, especially to the operations of a well-balanced fleet and that they constitute a type of war craft whose development should be continued."

"The principal utility of large airships for military service I consider to be what is called 'strategic scouting.' They are in effect scout cruisers of the air."

Aside from scouting work, Admiral King said other specialized functions an airship might perform are "long-voy and anti-submarine work, transport of material or personnel, communication with detached units," bombing operations under certain operations and "possibly as a post for fleet control."

The witness said he hoped to see "at least one large airship of military characteristics brought into being as rapidly as possible so that our naval operations can benefit from the competitive efforts that will follow from having at least two airships in operation."

Ready to Co-operate.

The navy department stands ready to co-operate with any other government branch in the further development of airships as a means of transportation, Admiral King asserted.

Construction of at least one airship hanger on each coast, together with mooring masts at desirable intermediate points was urged by Brigadier General O. Westover, assistant chief of the army air corps, as an important measure of national defense.

Although convinced that lighter-than-air craft can serve a useful military purpose, General Westover said priority should be given heavier-than-air types of military craft on account of limited army appropriations. Heavier-than-air types are more desirable from a military standpoint to their great speed, offensive and defensive qualities, he emphasized.

The assistant chief of the army air corps, who was the final witness heard by the commission today, said he did not believe airships will supersede ocean liners but will be important in augmenting present services. Establishment of commercial airship lines by the government would prove a valuable asset to national defense, he told the commission.

He went on record as opposed to any proposal for the development of commercial airship services out of funds diverted from army or navy appropriations.

SALE OF TAX FI. FAS. Deferred by Board

Possible sale of $500,000 worth of tax fi. fas. was deferred Tuesday afternoon by the finance committee of council. A measure offered by B. Graham West, city controller, to authorize the issuance of $500,000 worth of scrip, was approved.

The offer of Elyea, Inc., to buy $500,000 worth of fi. fas. at face value, will be considered later. It has the approval of Mayor James L. Key, who held that the sale of the fi. fas. would alleviate the necessity of borrowing money from banks. As the city would pay Elyea only about 2 1/2 per cent in accrued interest on the fi. fas., he said the city would be getting the cash cheaper than it could by borrowing. Controller West also pointed out that the school department would get approximately $150,000 cash if the sale was made.

The measure to authorize scrip will be used to pay November and December salaries.

The committee approved the purchase on a "rental" plan of eight police cars, 11 trucks, an ambulance, and a new seven-passenger sedan for the mayor. A proposal to raise the salaries of four employees of the water department was advertised.

CITY'S WATER BRINGS PROFIT OF $1,203,096

Sale of water netted the city $1,203,096 last year, an auditor's report on the water department filed Tuesday with Mayor James L. Key and Controller B. Graham West, showed.

The auditor commended the administration of Zede Smith, veteran chief, and another report, filed Tuesday morning, praised the municipal revenue department.

In 1929 Atlanta realized a profit of $1,117,242 from water, and in 1930, $1,229,906. It dropped considerably the next year, but has risen steadily since. At the end of the year and the municipal departments were found in good conditions by the Audit Company of the South.

FOOTBALL TAX LIEN FILED ON UNIVERSITY

Notice of a tax lien for $3,915.63 against the University of Georgia was filed Tuesday in the federal district court by W. E. Page, collector of internal revenue. The amount named in the lien is for taxes on the September and October games played by the university.

A similar notice was filed Friday against Georgia Tech for $3,915.63 to cover taxes charged against that school for the same period of time.

The Georgia lien named Charles E. Martin, trustee of the University of Georgia Athletic Association; the university's athletic association; and the University of Georgia department of athletics as defendants.

KEY BACKS MOVE TO OUST PENDLEY

Program Calls for Putting Couch in Council To Succeed Knight.

Plans to displace Oscar Pendley, secretary of the police committee and police department, and to put J. Allen Couch, former mayor pro tem, into council were being promulgated Tuesday with the approval of Mayor James L. Key.

The program calls for the transfer of Pendley to a patrolman's beat, replace him as secretary with Oscar Williamson Jr., who is superintendent of the city auditorium, and to name Councilman W. T. Knight, of the fifth ward, auditorium superintendent. Then former Alderman Couch would be elected to fill Knight's councilmanic post from the fifth.

"I would like to see Couch in council," Mayor Key said Tuesday. "He is a good man and although he was defeated in the city election for alderman this year, he carried the fifth ward by a large majority. He is the choice of the people in that ward."

Proponents of this program clothed their moves in secrecy but the matter was scheduled to be brought up soon.

Pendley has been secretary of the police committee and of the police department for many years. He has never served in uniform and high officials said they believed the experience would be good for him. The plan's supporters said they expected a fight from Pendley and if he succeeds in retaining his position, another post for Williamson will be sought so that the program may go on.

A bitter fight against displacing Pendley will be made by persons well acquainted with his work and Tuesday night the move to replace him was termed "just politics" by a city councilman.

This councilman praised Pendley's work and his plans of improving the police department and said it would be "shameful" to remove him just for the sake of politics.

"I will not recommend that Pendley be removed," Chief of Police T. O. Stuntz said Tuesday night.

"Since he has been here he has shown himself a most efficient officer and is the best secretary I've ever seen," the chief asserted.

FOREIGN LENDING URGED BY BANKERS

Threat of Exclusion,
However, Held Over
Heads of 'Bad Faith'
Debtors.

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., Oct. 30. (AP)—Wall Street international banking interests made a plea for the resumption of foreign lending at the Investment Bankers' convention today and held over the heads of foreign debtors the threat of exclusion from the American capital market as an inducement to make good their past promises to American investors.

"Those nations which have faithfully and promptly lived up to their obligations and have utilized all their efforts to meet their debt obligations will find the American bondholder receptive to new issues," said the report of the Investment Bankers' Association foreign securities committee, submitted to the convention by Ralph T. Crane, as chairman of the committee, after its acceptance by the association's board of governors.

"Those borrowers, on the other hand, who have treated lightly their foreign engagements and who at the first excuse suspended debt service, need not be surprised if they find the American market closed to them for many years to come," concluded the committee, whose chairman, an officer of the Wall Street investment banking house of Brown Harriman &

Argentine Polo Ace Dies in Plane Crash

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 30. (AP)—David Miles, one of Argentina's leading polo players, was killed today when a sports plane he was piloting crashed near the town of Junin, Aires province. Carlos Tillie Bell, well-known sportsman, also was killed. The death of Miles, who was 43 years old, was considered a severe blow to Argentine polo, as he ranked among the four best players of the country.

Company, Inc., is slated for election to presidency of the association at the convention final meeting tomorrow.

The report, merely received and filed by the convention, received little comment among the delegates, although a number said informally that they could foresee no resumption of foreign lending in the near future, in view of unsettled international economic conditions, the effect upon public sentiment of the war debt defaults and the discouraging experience of investors with foreign bonds. Of between $5,500,000,000 and $6,000,000,000, par value of foreign bonds currently outstanding in this country, it was pointed out, nearly $2,000,000,000 are in default.

The fact that over 60 per cent of the investment is being serviced promptly and in full, despite the severe world depression, however, was indicated by the Crane committee as "a clear indication that some foreign loans can be considered a safe form of investment."

Culbertson on Contract

By ELY CULBERTSON,
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst.

A Quick Decision.

Quick thinking is an almost essential ingredient in the make-up of a good Contract player. It is particularly important in the play of the cards. If the Declarer, for instance, can decide upon his best line of play without an instant's hesitation, he will have an enormous advantage over the defense. They will have to think equally to keep up with him, and even if they stop and think before making their plays, they will in a great many instances get an entirely wrong impression of the hand which they would not have obtained had the Declarer fussed and fumbled before playing.

On the hand below the South player was able to fulfill the six-club contract. This was because of an opponent's error. However, South gave the opportunity to err to his opponent by choosing his best line of play and choosing it instantaneously.

North and South vulnerable.

1—A very daring bid. However, South knows that he is "fixed" by West's pre-emptive bid. He further realizes that the spade Ace or even a lower spade honor will give him a play for the Slam contract and he knows that North with just a smattering of strength will not be able to raise five clubs to six. South's gamble in my opinion is a justifiable one in view of the bidding and the vulnerability situation.

The West player quite wisely decided, in view of South's jump to six clubs, that the latter was probably void of hearts and accordingly opened his fourth best spade in an effort to find the Declarer's vulnerable spot as quickly as possible. The Dummy was spread out and South had to think quickly. He realized from the bidding that the spade Ace was almost surely in the wrong hand as the West player was not one to pre-empt with side strength. Furthermore, West would not blindly lead away from an Ace against a Slam contract. With the spade Ace definitely marked in the wrong hand, South realized that he had but one hope.

There was a very good chance that West was leading from the spade Queen and the East player, not holding the Queen, would have no way of telling who held it. South therefore played a low spade from Dummy after no more than a second had elapsed. East, of course, was completely on the spot. He had no way of telling whether his partner had led from four or five spades and just who had the Queen. If the South player had the blank Queen of spades or even the Queen and one spade and a singleton heart, the play of the spade Ace at the first trick was the only way the contract could be made; but if South's holding was two small spades the play of the Ace might be suicidal. East finally made the wrong decision, and a contributing factor in his downfall was the rapidity with which South had played to the first trick. It did seem possible to East that South, with two small spades, could duck with but a second's hesitation. East went up with the spade Ace and then laid down the heart Ace. South trumped this, and of course was now able to claim the balance of the tricks without even using the extra diamond discard. West made a very fine opening, but South countered with an even better play, and poor East was the goat.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30. (AP)—The navy said today an officer and an enlisted man were killed this morning when two airplanes from the aircraft carrier Lexington collided during fleet exercises about 100 miles west of the Canal Zone.

The second plane, piloted by Lieutenant (junior grade) C. E. Brunton, Wenham, Mass., with Ensign P. H. Ashworth, Mountain View, Cal., as passenger, landed on the carrier with one wing damaged.

PLANS COMPLETE FOR MOTORCADE

Everything in Readiness
For Start of Event
Thursday Morning.

To stop en route, the driver must signal a stop and pull over on the shoulder of the road so the other cars may proceed without delay or having to go on the left side of the highway. When the stopped car is ready to start again it will fall in at the end of the procession. It may advance to its proper position when the motorcade stops at the next town.

In each town where a stop is scheduled the parking of cars will be directed by the local authorities and the police escort accompanying the motorcade.

The motorcade will start and stop by signal from the police escort sirens. The schedule drawn up, which is published in full in another column, provides for leaving Atlanta at 8 o'clock central time and arrival in Milledgeville, where lunch will be served on the campus of the Georgia State College for Women, at 12:20 o'clock eastern time. After lunch and a brief sight-seeing tour of the many points of historic interest at Milledgeville, and after time for replenishment of gasoline supply, the motorcade will leave that former capital of the state promptly at 1:45 o'clock. Sirens will give warning five minutes before the start so that all cars may be in line, ready to go.

Rest at Louisville.
There will be a rest period of 15 minutes at Louisville, another former capital of the state, where refreshments will be served. Another rest period is provided at Statesboro, where a welcoming motorcade of 150 cars from Savannah will meet the main party to escort it into the city by the sea, first capital of Georgia.

Many of Georgia's most distinguished citizens will be in the motorcade party, including United States Senator Richard B. Russell Jr., Congressman Frank R. Whelchel, Paul Brown and Robert Hannsbeck, all members of the state highway board, a large majority of the state officials, Mayor James I. Key and Mayor Thomas Gamble, of Savannah, as well as mayors of nearly all cities en route, who will head parties of their local citizens who will fall in line as the motorcade passes their town.

son with The Constitution of the motorcade, will arrive in Atlanta this morning. He will spend the day in the city and accompany the motorcade on Thursday.

Twenty-five cars from Athens, headed by President S. V. Sanford, of the University of Georgia, and Mrs. Sanford, will join the motorcade at Madison and another delegation from Macon is expected to connect at Milledgeville.

Among new registrants Tuesday was T. Barton Baird, state manager of the Southern Bell Telephone & Telegraph Company, who will be accompanied by Gregory C. Bowden, manager for the Atlanta district. Two bands, the Atlanta Police band and the Atlanta Firemen's band, will accompany the motorcade in large buses, providing brief concerts en route and playing for street dances and other entertainment in Savannah on Thursday night and Friday.

Repair Trucks. Wreckers.

Two repair trucks will be handled en route, if necessary, by a special repair station on Spring street, while the Scarecrow Wrecker Service will send one of their wrecker cars along, just in case of a breakdown.

There is no cost to any participant other than the gasoline and oil consumed by his own car and hotel expenses in Savannah. ## LINDSAY SUPPORT PLEGGED AT RALLY

800 DeKalb Voters Pass
Resolution Scoring
Naming of Garland.

their own candidate and that Lindsay is the man they want to vote for," said Judge Morgan.

Judge White Presides.

Judge E. P. White, chairman of the DeKalb committee, called the meeting to order and introduced Scott Candier as chairman, who explained the purpose of the gathering to be to further the candidacy of Lindsay for representative.

Lindsay, who received 317 more votes in the recent primary than his nearest opponent, Garland, was overruled by the state convention at Macon which, acting on a contest filed by Garland, declared him the nominee by a 106-vote majority. Various legal efforts have since been made to keep Lindsay's name off the election ballot, the latest a petition for injunction against Ordinary Morgan which will be heard at 9 o'clock this morning at Douglasville before Judge J. R. Hatchcock, of the Tallapoosa circuit.

Speakers at the meeting Tuesday night, which filled the courthouse at Decatur to overflowing, included Hopper Alexander Jr., committeeman from the Decatur district; Mrs. W. R. Simpson, a clerk at the courthouse precinct in the September primary; Lindsay himself; J. C. Estes, of Clarkston, former chairman of the DeKalb committee; Fred Miller, committeeman from Stone Mountain; H. Y. McCord, William S. Hiley Howard and others.

Lindsay Predicts Victory.

Lindsay, after outlining the development of the situation, declared personally he had no inclination to carry the matter further, but was in the hands of the committee and if they thought it right would, if necessary, run as a technical independent, but felt that he was actually the nominee of the people of the county.

"I expect to be on the floor of the house at the next legislature," he said, "helping to make Governor Talmadge do what he promised the people of the state he would do."

McCord said that he was, probably, the oldest man present and that in all his life he had always voted the straight democratic ticket. "I consider Paul Lindsay the party nominee," he said, "and will therefore vote for him, regardless of the label they put opposite his name on the ballot. If I considered Garland the nominee I would vote for him if I had to hold my nose to do so."

Schley Howard said how the case for Lindsay had been stated before the committee and said he considered that state executive committee had "literally stolen the nomination from Lindsay."

Mr. Howard then read the resolution endorsing Lindsay for the post and calling on every loyal democrat to vote for him next Tuesday. The resolution was carried unanimously amidst a burst of cheers from all present.

Text of Resolution.

"Whereas, on September 12, in a white democratic primary, the Honorable Paul L. Lindsay was declared the nominee of the said democratic party for its representative in the house of representatives from DeKalb county by a majority of 317 votes

"And whereas the defeated opponent of Mr. Lindsay filed a contest alleging fraud and corruption in said election at certain precincts in said county;

"And whereas the democratic executive committee met in regular sessions with all members present for the purpose of hearing and determining the merits of this contest;

"And whereas after said democratic executive committee called upon the said defeated opponent of Mr. Lindsay to proceed with the introduction of any evidence or charges of fraud or corruption in said election, his counsel, L. P. Skeen, asked that all of the grounds of the contest be withdrawn and stated that there were no charges or proof of any miscounting of votes or misconduct on the part of the election managers, but requested that he be allowed to file an amendment to his withdrawn contest, alien count that alleged the Decatur district manager commenced the count before the polls closed

Custom for 20 Years.

"And whereas it has been the custom for over 20 years in the large voting precincts to commence the count before the closing as provided for in the law governing general elections to expedite the completion of counting;

"And whereas there was no allegation or attempt at proof that the counting of the votes before the closing of the polls would have changed results a single vote;

"And whereas after hearing all the grounds of contest the said democratic committee of DeKalb county unanimously declared the Hon. Paul L. Lindsay the nominee of the democratic party of said county as their representative by a majority of 317 votes;

"Therefore, he it resolved, by this mass meeting of DeKalb county democrats here assembled that we denounce the ruthless and undemocratic tactics used by the state democratic executive committee at Macon to defeat the will of the large majority of the people of DeKalb county by declaring the defeated opponent of Mr. Lindsay the choice of the good people of this county, when in truth and in fact the said state democratic executive committee had no legal or moral grounds to ram this defeated candidate down the throats of the voters of DeKalb county against their will and against their vote.

"And therefore, be it further resolved, that we urge every democrat who believes in honest and fairness in elections to go to the polls on the 6th day of November and cast their vote for Hon. Paul L. Lindsay, the rightful nominee of the party in this county."

RELIEF FUND FLOW
ASSAILED BY G.O.P.November Allotment
Hiked for Political Purposes, Statement Charges

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—(P)—A year of protest rose from the republican high command today as the democratic administration, with the election a week off, poured $135,000,000 of relief money into every state except Maine, which voted in September.

The republican senatorial congressional campaign committee, in a statement, asserted that "again the New Deal administration converts itself of the charge of using federal relief funds for political purposes and as a substitute for a campaign fund."

While relief officials explained that Maine had been omitted from the allocations because its needs for November had not been determined, the republican committee said:

"Curiously enough every state except Maine received a slice. Maine has already voted. Maine, under the Farley plan of Tammanyizing the country, manifestly is recorded as having had her share."

Allotments Greatly Increased. The relief allotments, designed for November needs, were divided among 47 states, the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico. It was a big increase over the $113,590,490 given to all states and territories for October.

Relief officials said the increased allotments were apportioned in anticipation of greater relief needs in November's cold weather.

The republican committee, however, commented:

"Santa Claus was around again today and again he is playing New Deal politics with the money of all the people."

"Today's announcement was an innovation. Up to today no allocation has been made until after the first of the month and then only for a few states at a time."

"November's allocation is announced days in advance of custom and a full week in advance of the election. This is the way to reap the full political benefit."

VOTING RIGHT OF THOUSANDS
UP TO CALIFORNIA COURT

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 30.—(P)—The right of thousands of persons in Los Angeles to vote in the November election hung in a legal balance today, while more rumors about prospective withdrawals kept California's governorship campaign at fever heat. Los Angeles is the stronghold of Upton Sinclair, democratic nominee for governor.

Nearly 25,000 prospective voters accused of illegal registration were involved in the case before the state supreme court, and upwards of 100,000 eventually may be affected.

Sinclairites, facing election day with no prospect of help from the national administration, have charged 95 per cent of those named in the suit were democrats, and that the legal action was the result of a republican conspiracy to disfranchise voters by the wholesale.

As the high court deliberated, J. P. T. O'Connor, United States controller of the currency, arrived in Los Angeles and denied rumors that Postmaster-General James Farley had asked him to urge Sinclair to withdraw.

O'Connor said his visit was "99 per cent on personal business and has nothing to do with Sinclair or the republican candidate, Acting Governor Frank F. Merriam."

Asked if he planned to visit Sinclair while in Los Angeles, O'Connor replied:

"I'll see Sinclair if he wishes to see me, and for that matter, I'll see Merriam, if he so wishes, but my plans do not include a visit to either."

Sinclair declared he would not withdraw from the campaign under any circumstances, and said he had a "million votes" in reply to a plea from Miles Dempsey, socialist candidate, that he quit and throw his support to the socialist party.

GOV. SCHMEDEMAN RECOVERS,
APPEALS FOR RE-ELECTION

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 30.—(P)—Governor A. G. Schmedeman, whose left leg was amputated October 5 to halt a gangrenous infection, tonight assured the Wisconsin electorate he had returned to general good health.

The governor, asking re-election on the democratic ticket, gave his assurance in an address. He said he expected "to carry on as before."

Things That Make
Women More Beautiful

(Posed by Karen Morley.)

Women Are Learning To Set Their Hair With Wave-Set Aids

By MIGNON.

During prosperous times women spent at least as much time as they should (maybe more) in the beauty parlors, and with marvelous results. Even the men who paid the bills didn't object, because they kept themselves so pretty and so well groomed. But times being what they are, and women having watched someone else, they are beginning to find out how to do it themselves.

After a permanent wave or two, the hair gets trained into waves that are not so difficult to keep in order. The only trouble is that right after a permanent you can lose your mind trying to "wave your own."

The trick is, I have found, in getting a good wave-set lotion, and using it the strength necessary for your hair. If the hair is very kinky it takes a thicker lotion to hold it in place while you push it where you want it to go. If you use combs, and so few people do these days, you have to push it anyway before you place the combs.

You know how kinky your head looks after you have given yourself the shampoo? Well, combing it isn't enough. There has to be a lotion to hold it down.

If your hair is coarse you should use a heavy lotion. If it is fine, pour water into a glass and pour lotion into that, to make it the proper thickness for your grade of hair.

If your hair is somewhat curly and doesn't need much coaxing, yet you want it to hold its wave after you are through arranging it, use a thin, watery lotion without much body, but designed to keep the curl in the hair much longer. Some say this lotion even makes the hair curl and it is my experience that it does, but you have to keep at it and repeat the dose early and often. When I used to set my hair with combs I used this and the waves were soft and fluffy.

Then hot weather came and I succumbed to a permanent. Now I need a heavier lotion to keep the pesky stuff from throwing itself into giggling little ringlets that no grown woman wants.

1. I can tell you a reliable wave-set lotion that can be diluted to suit the hair. 2. I can also tell you of the thin watery lotion for those of you who have a little curl in your tresses and want to train it to stay there and improve.

3. Another thing I mustn't forget is that you can buy a box of powder that can be made into wave-set lotion. You get enough for a quarter to make three pints of the lotion. The whole family can be waved for about 2 cents a wave. At any rate it's pleasantly cheap. You mix it with water and it keeps indefinitely. Directions come with it. It is simple and most satisfactory.

Friendly Counsel

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD.
Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

Dear Miss Chatfield: This is my problem. I am a widower 52 years of age. My wife has been dead 10 years. I never expected love again to enter my life but I have fallen hard for a young woman 22 years of age. I have been knowing her since she was 15 years old. I have been going around with her for some time to the amusement of our friends but it is a serious matter with us. We apparently have the same tastes in practically everything. We do not disagree to the point of unpleasantness but do argue a little in a pleasant way. She is willing to take a chance in marrying me. I tell her that it is not natural for her to love a man of my age. She says she is not desperately in love with me but is satisfied that she can be supremely happy if we marry. She is in no wise a gold digger. She has never in any way tried to work me like one would expect under the circumstances. I believe I could be happy with her the few years I have to live. What do you think? Do you believe a marriage of people whose ages are so far apart can turn out happily?

PERPLEXED.

Answer: Thirty years difference between the ages of a man and a woman divides them by a generation. Although they have what Proust calls "consanguinity of spirit," they have a great gulf fixed between them, a gulf that will widen after the first excitement of love and romance has calmed. It is not altogether a question of biology, except in so far as biological laws govern the mind and the heart. Take the average father of 52 and notice how hard it is for him to get the viewpoint of his young daughter on pleasure and amusement. Hers consists largely in activity. She wants to dance the hours away, to ride fast in an automobile, to sit up all night and sleep late in the morning, to be surrounded by a crowd of noisy, playful young people. To save his life he cannot see why she isn't contented to sit at home and read, to go to bed at 11 o'clock and get up at a decent hour in the morning. He may be an indulgent father and look with parental complacency on the folly of his child, but he cannot understand why she enjoys her follies.

Now then marry a 52-year-old man to a girl of 22. Marriage does not change him nor does it change her. Each has the same tastes and each likes to indulge those tastes. One of them, or both, must give up the things he or she prefers to do and live in a manner wholly ungenial. When the girl is old beyond her years and the man is young for his age, there may be a few years in which they can manage to adjust themselves, one to the other. But the man is rapidly approaching the time of life when he cannot keep up with the young wife and she is just beginning the first race. Necessarily she will be domineering to a lone widowhood if she married a man 30 years older than she. But this is not the worst hazard. She may be domineering herself to be nurse and companion to an invalid during the very time that she craves to be up and out and doing.

No doubt a girl can fall romantically in love with a man old enough to be her father. But if he loves her unselfishly, he should think long before he permits her to sacrifice her youth to his age, for sacrifice it is after a few years.

There is always some basis in fact for the be-whiskered jokes that men have made and laughed at through generations after generations. The joke is more universally known than the joke about the young girl married to the old man. Recently some wag remarked that when he found one rich young thing married a poor old man he would withdraw all the criticism he had offered of youth mating with age.

According to every line of reasoning, 30 years is too great a difference between a man and his wife. Yet lovers don't listen to reason nor are they given to rationalizing their love. CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Dear Miss Chatfield: I am the only daughter of well-to-do parents and they hold up their hands in holy horror when I speak of going to work. The truth is I am bored to tears with idleness. I would have preferred to remain at college and take up some professional studies but mother had a society course mapped out for me and father humored her instead of humoring me. Three years ago I came home and settled down to a rapid existence that holds no charm for me other than being with my parents. Do you think a girl has the right to defy her parents in such a case.

Answer: Wrote Shakespeare: "If all the years were playing humdrum to sport would be as tedious as to work." No parents, however, opulent and loving, have any moral right to insist that their daughter spend her life in idleness simply because they want her to shine in society. You can't make a little child enjoy the game you choose for her to play unless she finds it congenial, much less make a grown girl enjoy lounging and loafing when she wants to go to work.

You might make this concession to your parents: find a job that will permit you to remain at home. If they cannot become reconciled to your new scheme of life, then you may have to move away and leave them.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

U. S. JURY HEAD HELD FOR ACCEPTING BRIBE

BOSTON, Oct. 31.—(P)—Foreman George Anderson, of a federal grand jury which has been investigating the emergency relief administration, was arrested in the federal building today on a charge of accepting a bribe.

Anderson was charged specifically with accepting a $500 bribe in Boston for his vote and actions before the grand jury. He entered a plea of not guilty and United States Commissioner Edwin C. Jenney ordered him held in $20,000 bail for a hearing tentatively set for November 13.

The jury of which Anderson was foreman had been investigating alleged irregularities in the operations of the ERA in this state. Recently Anderson made a sensational statement in which he said that President Roosevelt was "being betrayed" by his own henchmen in Massachusetts who were using the FERA "for their own benefit."

Proclamation of WELCOME and GOOD WILL

EXECUTIVE OFFICE
City of Savannah, Georgia

THE PEOPLE OF GEORGIA, and more especially those whose homes and places of business are along the route of, or adjacent to, the new highway which connects Atlanta with Savannah, passing through two old capitals of the state, Milledgeville and Louisville, and tying the first capital of Georgia to the present capital, and likewise bringing all upper Georgia into direct, easy and speedy automobile communication with the coastal country and the state's chief seaport, are hereby urged to lay aside business responsibilities and cares on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, November 1, 2 and 3, or for part thereof, to remember that after five years of depression in material activities the era of gloom and doubt and anxieties is drawing to an end, and to join cordially and joyfully with their fellow Georgians of Savannah and its nearby territory in celebrating one of the greatest events in the history of the highway development of our state and of the south, the completion of the 300 miles of splendidly constructed, entirely modern road that is to be officially christened as the "Four Capitals Highway."

Of highways in Georgia, and it has many other splendid evidences of our state's progress in highway building in recent years, highways that are splendid in their construction and in their values to the people of Georgia, none exceeds in importance this highway that from now on will furnish an opportunity for the people of a vast section of Georgia to visit and to know each other better, will facilitate the exchange of commodities, and enable rapid transportation to business men, saving time and expense in the daily conduct of their affairs. This highway will serve to bind Georgians along its route closer together in social and business ties, and will be a great medium in unifying Georgia and giving it concert of action in all matters pertaining to its upbuilding and future welfare.

Highways such as this are recognized as great democratizing forces, as great promoters of universal prosperity, as drawing people closer together in mutual understanding of their common problems, and in joint action looking toward their sagacious solution and the promotion of the material interests of all Georgia. They serve to destroy merely local outlooks on Georgia problems, they create and develop broader and more comprehensive recognition of state-wide problems, and they tend to make Georgia a commonwealth moved by one mind when its vital interests are at stake.

Therefore the opening officially of such a highway becomes an event of outstanding importance, not to the few, but to millions of Georgians, not merely to Savannah, or to Atlanta, or to any one city or town or county, but to the entire 300 miles traversed and the great territory on either side whose people will enter upon its use through other improved highways leading to it.

Fully realizing what the "Four Capitals Highway" means to all Georgia, the people of Savannah extend to you this official greeting as a prelude to their personal welcome, as an outward expression of that deep and ever-abiding sentiment of goodwill they, the inheritors of the traditions and the spirit of the founders of Georgia, feel toward all their fellow Georgians, and invite them, one and all, to participate in the ceremonies and festivities attendant on the dedication of this great highway to the service of Georgia and to the upbuilding of the individual and collective welfare of its three million of people.

MASONS SEE DEGREE DRAMATIZED IN MACON

Convention To Close Today With Election of Officers.

MACON, Ga., Oct. 30.—(AP)—Dramatization of the Fellowship degree tonight was presented by a picked team in connection with the 148th annual communication of the Masonic Grand Lodge of Georgia which began its two-day session here today.

Dramatization of the degree was the idea of Past Grand Master N. H. Ballard, of Atlanta. The first section was presented by a team from Georgia Lodge No. 96, Atlanta, and the second section by a selected cast from Macon lodges. Guy Thurman, chairman of the board of custodians of the work supervised the presentation.

Dr. Guy Lunsford, of Macon, grand master, presided at the opening session today. He has completed two years of service as grand master and is expected to retire as active head of the organization. Judge E. D. Thomas, of Atlanta, is in line to succeed him and Abit Nix, of Athens, is in line to become deputy grand master.

A separate meeting of the Masonic Home board was held at which reports were heard from W. W. Webb, of Habersham, home inspector, and Harrison Daugherty, superintendent of the Masonic home here. It is expected that two members will be elected to the home board and after those elections the board will hold a final session tomorrow following adjournment of the grand lodge.

Children Accepted.
The board accepted six new children for the home and voted to add to four other children and aid to mothers in four other cases.

The home trustees reported the institution had operated within its budget, had conducted case work in such a manner as to enable many children to continue living with relatives and the operation of a health clinic.

The home economics department where girls are taught domestic duties has moved into remodeled quarters which are to be permanent, the report said, while the school of industries now includes departments for repairs of shoes, furniture, automobiles, plumbing and general repairs.

Profit from the print shop has made possible the construction of new barns, a cannery, the home economics department and the clinics, the home report showed.

D. H. O'Neal, Atlanta railroad man and a member of the Georgia chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, visited the home during the board meeting and presented the home with 20 gallons of cherries and other preserves.

The Greenfield chorus arrived today to be guests of the home during the convention and was heard in a program tonight preceding presentation of the Fellowship degree.

Unusual Events In Georgia News

DEGREES AT CORNELIA.
CORNELIA, Ga., Oct. 30.—(AP)—Old Man Winter swooped down on this section last night, pushing the mercury down to 28 degrees, at 5 o'clock this morning, according to C. H. Alden, entomologist. A hard freeze and a heavy frost were in evidence today.

WALKING STICK TREE.
TOCOGA, Ga., Oct. 30.—(AP)—Did you ever see a walking stick growing?

There's one here and the story behind it is that a man, tired from a long hike, struck his walking stick into the ground and it took root.

The result today is a life-sized tree with all the appearance of a walking stick.

"FIRE" IS OPTICAL ILLUSION.
MACON, Ga., Oct. 30.—(AP)—Firemen yesterday chalked up a false alarm. A large fire was reported from a building on a hill.

Reflections against a wall of the W. F. Kelly home caused residents to turn in a fire alarm but there wasn't any fire when the trucks arrived. Firemen discovered it merely was an illusion created by the sun.

TARDY FAIR FEE PAID.
MACON, Ga., Oct. 30.—(AP)—Some folks slip in the fair here without paying but so far only one has been really repentant.

Yesterday E. G. Jacobs, president of the Georgia State Exposition, received a letter containing a 25-cent piece, "1 admission" was the only message in the missive.

The fair closed two weeks ago.

DIDN'T TAKE BUILDING.
ROME, Ga., Oct. 30.—(AP)—L. B. Edwards went away from home and left his faithful bulldog to guard the house. Burglars paid a visit during his absence and Edwards reported to police the following articles were missing:

A shotgun, rifle, pistol, four watches, five dresses, a suit, a bathrobe, 20 neckties, pistol cartridges, shotgun shells and silverware. The bulldog was still there.

817 TOOTHACHE.
MACON, Ga., Oct. 30.—(AP)—The dentist didn't need to be called for this 817 "toothache."

A negro farmer reported $80 was stolen from him and officers arrested a negro woman.

A search at the jail failed to reveal any cash on the woman's person.

But a matron noticed a lump in her jaw.

"Toothache," the woman said.

"Open your mouth," ordered the matron.

Seventeen dollars made the lump.

GEENE CAUSE JAM.
RURAL, Ga., Oct. 30.—It took two county policemen Tuesday morning to clear the road here of the traffic jam caused by spectators who stopped to watch the thousands of wild geese flying southward overhead.

It took about 10 minutes for the flocks to pass and as it occurred about 8:30 o'clock as the children were school-bound, it presented an unusual spectacle to them as to other citizens as well.

"TEARS" EXPLAINED.
AUGUSTA, Ga., Oct. 30.—(AP)—The secret of the weeping spectators trees is out.

Naturalists who examined the trees in three different sections of the city said the "tears" were caused by millions of weevils which bore into the limbs and cause a watery substance to exude.

Before the naturalists announced their finding the trees caused considerable excitement among the laymen who gathered to watch the daily weepings.

A FULL LARDER.
WEST POINT, Ga., Oct. 30.—(AP)—Molasses dinner at the Old Peoples' home in Chambers county (Alabama) are going to be mighty good if a peek at the farming record of 1934 is any authority.

Here's the production so far: 300 bushels wheat, 350 bushels oats, 1,000 bushels peavine hay, 1,200 bushels corn, 1,400 bushels sweet potatoes, 50 bushels Irish potatoes, 20 bushels peanuts, 22 hogs (in the pen fattening).

—And several hundred cans of beans, large quantity of dried peas, butterbeans and several hundred gallons cane syrup.

All this for the 30 odd inmates.

Miss Mann Says Cure For Ills Is Honesty

WAYCROSS, Ga., Oct. 30.—(AP)—The power of the teacher to make students fit for the world ahead to make the world fit for the students was the keynote of an address delivered here today by Miss Allie Mann, of Atlanta, president of the Georgia Education Association, at the eighth district educational convention.

Miss Mann told the gathering of eight district teachers that the teacher must give the children the moral equivalent of the hardship of pioneer days.

"We must turn to simple honesty—we must teach them to be honest to get something for nothing. Thus we could do away with a whole gamut of present-day ills, ranging from the desire for cheap and undeserved praise through hitch-hiking, undesired political preferment and through petty chance games to high-powered stock gambling. The 10,000 teachers of Georgia can be the most effective force in bringing desired changes."

Miss Beth Williams, of the Quitman Free Press, also addressed the teachers.

Cheering Throng Sees
Governor Drive Horse

By BEN F. MEYER.
Associated Press Staff Writer.
HAWKINSVILLE, Ga., Oct. 30.—(AP)—Governor Talmadge was as happy as a youngster today when he rode behind his trotting horse to cheers of thousands at the Pulaski County fair.

The governor was unable to participate in the regular races, because his trotter, Signal Mountain, developed a cold.

"I was keen for driving this afternoon," the governor told the fair crowd shortly before the races began, "but behind my horse was sick and I am going to exercise him a little."

The governor spoke briefly, telling the gathering he was glad to have been able to attend the fair. He had lunch with Mrs. Talmadge as guest of the fair directors.

The crowd cheered as the governor stepped into a sulky, dressed in street clothes, and took a turn of the track behind his trotter. The audience cheered again as he finished the drive.

The governor drove in the parade to the fair grounds behind the Macon Drum and Bugle corps and the local unit of the national guard.

Among the state officials attending the fair was Zach Cravey, of Macon, state commissioner of game and fish.

PAMPHLET IS ISSUED BY DAHLONEGA BODY

DAHLONEGA, Ga., Oct. 30.—"Dahlonega, Georgia—The Gold City," is the title of an eight-page leaflet just issued here by the local Chamber of Commerce which gives the history of gold mining in this section. According to the pamphlet, which is printed on heavy glazed paper, with lettering of gold on the cover page, Dahlonega is in the center of the richest portion of the gold belt extending from the Carolinas through Georgia into Alabama. The city is named for the metal. Dahlonega being an Anglicized form of the Cherokee Indian word Tsalanaga, which means "yellow gold."

Over $40,000,000 worth of gold has been mined and picked up in and around the city since 1803, the year it was discovered. It is chronicled in the booklet. A mint was erected here in 1836 and coined over $8,000,000 before it was abandoned in 1861. It is "far from exhausted," the booklet claims, and contains six beautiful illustrations, including a campus scene of the North Georgia College located here, several mining pictures, including one of $4,800 in newly mined gold "buttons" held in the palm of one hand.

J. S. Spear is secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

DARK FIRED LEAF MEN ARE GRANTED RFC LOAN

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—(AP)—The Reconstruction Finance Corporation said today loans totaling $3,000,000 to Dark Fired Tobacco Growers' Associations in Tennessee and Kentucky, were made yesterday in view of the fact a large part of that type of tobacco is sold abroad.

A $2,000,000 loan was made to the Eastern Dark Fired Growers' Association in Tennessee, and $1,000,000 to the Western Dark Fired Growers' Association in Kentucky, to be used as 1934 crop advances.

Cane Grinding Time in Full Swing In Syrup Belt of South Georgia

By JOE DAVIS.
VALDOSTA, Ga., Oct. 30.—(AP)—The sweetest season of the year has come to Georgia's sugar cane belt. Farmers in the southern part of the state have turned to strapping "bills" at cane mills where the juice is crushed from the long stalks. Dipped to huge kettles and boiled down to a thick golden mass.

The growers are working at top speed to beat the first frost fall which nips the stalks and sours the juice.

The rush to gather the crop keeps the farmers busy into the night and their work after dark is made merry as neighbors gather to lend a helping hand and incidentally, to dip a cup into the barrels of molasses.

Sugar cane thrives in low damp country through the summer and to a thick golden mass.

While some of the more advanced farmers boast electric grinders and special heating apparatus, most of them use the old-fashioned mills powered by mules and the wood burning heaters devised generations ago.

The close-fitting sleeves introduced fullness at the elbow, but were tailored at the wrist. The skirt was tight fitting to the knees and flared at the bottom. Her veil was of white tulle, the college and the alumnae association applied with lace flowers at the hem.

and on the edges. Her bouquet was of valley lilies outlined by white chrysanthemums.

Mrs. J. C. Peek Sr., mother of the bride, was beautifully gowned in a deep red crepe with black accessories. Her shoulder spray was of lilies of the valley and roses. Mrs. W. L. Nichols, mother of the bridegroom, was dressed in a black velvet gown. Her flowers were roses.

INSTALLMENT XXIX.

"So that's the dope!" The police officer grunted. "Well, big boy, I guess you gotta hang around a while. My orders is to keep hold of this insect." "All right, hold fast," said Mr. Timmott, "while I go telephone a buddy to get word to my mother. But don't squish the insect." Mr. Timmott turned back to say, "I'm saving that up for myself."

By which Joey knew that he had nothing to fear. His old man never wasted words when really mad. . . . And Mr. Alby had told him about the height guessing. . . . The old man wasn't so bad. . . .

His soaring spirit stimulated his mind. Gee, he ought to be able to dope out something about that man on the housepot. Let's see. . . . As the officer walked him up and down, Joey pretended to himself that he was sitting in the bottom of the taxi and looking up at the window. He closed his eyes. Yes, it was just as plain—he could see everything he had seen in the split seconds between the time when the falling slipper awakened him, and the time he was out of the taxi and in Burt's arms. The leg that had disappeared, he hadn't seen all of it, only from the knee down. But he could remember the exact angle at which the knee was bent, and the exact angle of the foot, and the size and shape of the shadow they cast on the window shade. That might be useful to Mr. Alby.

He opened his eyes at the sound of another car. Here was the assistant district attorney himself. "Mr. Alby," Joey cried, "I've been observing. Please take me in with you. I saw the man's leg as it went over—"

"Young man," said Alby severely, "your father woke me up out of a sound sleep!"

"Gee, that's tough, Mr. Alby. But I been observing. I tell you, Only I fell asleep on the floor of Burt's car and I only saw the end of it. Please Mr. Alby," Joey's voice was a cry of anguish. "Mr. Alby, you just couldn't take me in!"

Alby looked at the boy. "Do you know how to keep your mouth shut?"

"Oh, boy! I could teach oysters!"

"All right, officer, I'll take him over."

The policeman let go.

"Tell my father, officer," Joey called loftily over his shoulder, "not to wait up for me. I don't know just what time I'll be home."

Inside the hall Alby asked an officer where Burt was.

"Top floor," he replied, "or the roof. They're all up there except Hackett, who's in with the Cogges. And Odleigh and Burnett are out back, looking over fire escapes."

Upstairs they found Burt refusing the impressionable idea of Adelaide to see Sheridan. "He's O. K., miss," Burt was saying. "Nobody's been throwing knives at him."

The moment Alby entered Adelaide appealed to him. "Something is the matter, Mr. Alby. Or they'd let me see him. Please—"

"In due time, Miss Sayre. Now," he demanded of Burt, "what happened?"

"There wasn't a sound in the street," Detective Burt told Alby. "When plop I heard something fall, I was out of the cab with that kid bumping into me and crying 'The roof! He'll get away!' And I blew down the stairs. Mrs. Galloway and McCarty came in about a minute. I left McCarty outside with the kid. Dixon went up to the roof through the hall, and Burns into this apartment. Steve—Mrs. Galloway—went to the door—the back door. And then a second later Dinard was there, too, barefoot, saying sharp to Mrs. Galloway, 'I'll take care of this. You see if Miss Sayre's all right.' And Mrs. Galloway went off and I made Dinard show me the soles of his feet but they were clean. 'Someone's been on the roof,' I said. And before I could answer Mrs. Galloway called, 'Don't let your men spoil the footprints on the roof.' Dinard was burning up to get to Miss Sayre. I had to keep him covered with my rod while I phoned headquarters. They sent the photographer and two more men in about ten minutes. Meanwhile Mrs. Galloway had got Miss Sayre out of a faint for a while. Miss Sayre the room exactly as it was. Miss Sayre can tell you her part."

"Adelaide did," "Now," she begged, "please can't I see Mr. Dinard?"

Before Alby had time to answer, Burt went on. "The bottom of the slipper that was dropped from the roof was Dinard's. The bottom of it is pretty dusty."

Adelaide gave a startled cry. Joey's mouth fell open. Alby ordered.

"Go on," Alby ordered.

"Mrs. Galloway's evidence spoils it some. Says from the time they went to bed, she patrolled the two apartments. Says she propped Dinard's door open as soon as she thought he'd be asleep. Every 10 minutes or so she'd look in. Mrs. Galloway does not see how Dinard could have had time to do that. She says she saw him when he was looking at him when we knocked at the door."

"You searched through both empty apartments?"

"Sure. Nothing doing. The first escape was being watched, and the downstairs door."

"Exactly how long between the time the slipper fell and the time you got into the hall?"

"Two minutes, maybe. Not more."

"Two minutes?"

"No, Mr. Alby. But I had to wait till Burns and the others turned up—I couldn't leave the front of the house unguarded. And that kid there, he was a fast runner. And the hall door was solid. I rang all the bells and was trying to break it in, when Cogges shivered out in his night-shirt."

"A man then would have had time to get down from the roof through the hall trapdoor into this or any other apartment, in fact, even into the basement?"

"Yes, sir. But it don't look like anybody did that. Two slippers, and one of them over the front roof, and one inside the window of Dinard's room."

"It's another plot!" Adelaide cried. "You know it is, Mr. Alby!"

"Besides," Detective Burt ignored her, "it couldn't have taken half a minute for Dinard to dash across the roof, drop to the fire escape and get back into bed."

"Well, just what did you see, Joey?" Alby told just what he had seen. A bent knee and the lower part of the leg and foot, dark against the edge of the whole body as it rolled over. "All right, do your stuff," said Alby. "How tall was the man?"

Joey winced. "If I'd waked up one second earlier I could tell you."

"A fine detective you'd make. Sleeping on your first job. I suppose you were too sleepy to tell how many inches of leg you saw?"

At this moment the door bell rang. Burt went to the door. "It's Officer McCarty," he reported. "Says a man named Timmott wants his kid."

"Tell him to send Timmott up," said Alby. "He can take his boy home and put him to bed."

"But I've waked up since, Mr. Alby," Joey's words tripped over one another. "I've figured out a way to know how many inches of leg I saw. I know exactly what the knee and the leg and foot looked like. And where their shadow came on the shade."

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

HALLOWEEN NIGHTS.

A letter from England, written by our Corner friend, Dorothea Smith, contains some interesting points about the English view of Halloween.

"It is likely that more than one young man found a way of making his face appear in the mirror—by walking on tiptoe behind the maiden."

"The 'Eve of St. Agnes' is a very lovely poem written about some of the Halloween legends."

"In Cornwall (in southwestern England), people still roast chestnuts and believe that they will see their true loves, and spirit beings as well, lurking around the fire."

"In the villages and small towns of Scotland during the time of Robert Burns, young fellows bent on mischief often gathered rabbages and went about 'bumping' them against doors."

"That was mischief, but there has been worse mischief on Halloween during the memory of many persons still living. In general, I think that young folks have become more thoughtful—at least they seem to do less serious mischief—but some do things which would be better left undone."

"A good rule which will serve at Halloween, as well as at any other time, is this:

"Never make sport at the cost of hurting any other human being."

Miss Margaret Underwood Weds Dr. Poer at St. Mark Church Rites

Miss Margaret Laird Underwood became the bride of Dr. David Henry Poer at a brilliant ceremony Tuesday evening, taking place at 8:30 o'clock at St. Mark Methodist church, in the presence of a representative assembly of relatives and friends of the couple. Rev. M. L. Underwood, grandfather of the bride, officiated, assisted by Dr. J. W. Johnson, pastor of St. Mark church. Preceding and during the ceremony a program of appropriate musical music was played by Mrs. Charles Bowman and the bride party entered to the strains of the wedding march from Lohengrin, while Mendelssohn's wedding march was used as the recessional.

Preceding the ceremony, "Prelude," from Wagner's "Meistersinger," "The Swan," by St. Saens; "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice," from "Samson and Delilah," by St. Saens; "Meditation," by Strauss; "Scenes from the Schumann," by Schumann; and the organist, "To An Evening Star" was played during the ceremony by Mrs. Bowman.

Ascension lilies were featured in the decoration of the church. A raised platform was erected on which members of the bride party formed a tableau for the ceremony, and were flanked at the back with palms and ferns. A large central basket held in effective arrangement of lilies, and mounds of similar flowers were placed on either side before the background of greenery. Seven-branched candelabra were interspersed among the foliage plants and held lighted tapers. Clusters of ascension lilies marked the seats occupied by members of the families.

Wedding Party.
Miss Florence Underwood served as the cousin's maid. Mrs. Charles Hinton, of Macon, sister of the bridegroom, was matron of honor, and the bridesmaids included Mesdames Nathan Brandon, Henry Miller, J. L. Pittman, Misses Helen Evans, Anne Wynn Fleming and Kathryn Brooks. The bride's attendants were chosen exactly alike in models of shell pink moire, fashioned on fitted lines, the skirts being slit at the sides, and extending in the back to form brief trains. Stiffened satin formed the new petto effect at the shoulders and the necklines were high in front, drooping to form deep V lines in the back. The petto effect was repeated in the pockets, giving graceful bouffant lines to the skirts. They carried cascade bouquets of premier supreme roses.

Dr. Poer had Frank Rowsey as best man, and the groomsmen included Dr. Strickler, Dr. Carter Smith, Dr. William Trimble, Dr. Norman Piers, Dr. Roger Dickson and Dr. Ed Finch. Acting as ushers were Judge E. E. Pomeroy, Judge E. Marvin Underwood, Dr. H. Sted, Harold Simpson, of Cincinnati, Ohio; Harold Van Arsdale, of Cincinnati; Dr. L. G. Parham, Dr. Claude Pennington, of Macon, and Dr. John Gonde, of Dallas, Texas.

Lovely Bride.
The lovely bride, who was given in marriage by her father, Alvin Underwood, presented a striking picture in her wedding gown, a Schiaparelli model of bridal satin. Her hair and bodice were filled at the neckline with an in-

Bride's Table.

The exquisitely embossed wedding cake, which was placed upon a mound of white flowers, centered the decoration of the bride's table. At either end of the table were smaller mounds of white flowers, with burning tapers arising from the mounds of flowers. Similar mounds of flowers adorned the sideboard. The table and sideboard were garlanded with asparagus fern, caught at intervals with clusters of white and pink flowers. The decoration in the living room, and palms were banded to form a background for the receiving line. Mrs. Sam Henry Rumph kept the bride's book.

Dr. Poer and his bride left for a wedding trip to New York city and other points in the east. For traveling, Mrs. Poer donned a model of blue wool crepe made in tunic style and featuring a collar of red velvet leather, red buttons and red belt. Her hat was of dark blue velvet, trimmed with uncut ostrich feathers, and she wore a coat in a matching shade of blue with luxurious fur collar. ## Mrs. Stevenson and Miss Wilkins Proposed as Women Voters' Head

The name of Mrs. Wellington Stevenson, the incumbent president, and that of Miss Josephine Wilkins, were proposed for state presidents of the Georgia League of Women Voters at the opening session of the seventh convention held on Tuesday at Fulton County High school on Washington street. The slate of directors nominated were Mrs. E. M. Bailey, of Acworth; Mesdames Leonard Haas, J. O. Martin and Miss Allie Mann, of Atlanta; Mrs. R. H. Hankinson, of Columbus; Mrs. John Morris, of Athens; Mrs. W. A. Ozmer, of Decatur; Mrs. Chaucer Rhodes, of Columbus, and Mrs. A. L. Wade, of Decatur.

Permanent Registration.
Atlanta, DeKalb and Fulton county leagues have been working assiduously for permanent registration in elections by the Georgia League of Women Voters. For the first time in the history of the league, this card index system will be used for the elections to be held on Thursday, November 1, at 10:30 o'clock. When 100 delegates registered for credentials on Tuesday, the card catalogue system was put into effect, and when each delegate votes today, she will be identified by the signature on the card, which remains as a permanent registration or record. Mrs. Augustus Roan, president of the Decatur league, presented Mrs. Stevenson with a basket filled with yellow and white chrysanthemums.

The re-employment and rehabilitation bill, known as the Piser-Wagner bill, was presented by students from Agnes Scott and Brenan Colleges, this being included on the league's state program for active support.

President's Address.
Mrs. Wellington Stevenson, of Decatur, president of Georgia League of Women Voters, in her address given at the opening session of the seventh convention held on Tuesday at Fulton County High school, stated that "County Government" was selected as the theme of the meeting because it is the direct interest of every citizen in the state. Likewise, it is in accordance with the principles and program of the league.

People will look with favor on the larger units of government through the interests of education, health and social service rendered," she explained, "rather than the lowered tax rate. That is why the merger of counties seems so important now," said Mrs. Stevenson.

"It is significant that the new Fulton County League of Women Voters occupies a location that is attracting the attention of every section of the United States, because of the Fulton-Milton-Campbell consolidation which happens to be the largest economic war in the country," she said.

She cited six departments of the league program including government and its operation, education, child welfare, economic welfare, health and social service, and the league's program for active support.

In conclusion Mrs. Stevenson said, "We hope this session may connect the various departments of our program with those corresponding activities in our own lives and make them our work live and interesting and effective."

"The League of Women Voters promotes the responsible participation of every citizen in government," said Mrs. Stevenson. "It believes that a continuing political education is essential to the success of democracy and that citizens may have opinions based on facts and may, as voters, make these opinions effective."

Longins, Wright Speak.
The pros and cons of county consolidation were discussed at a Tuesday night session at the Glenn Memorial chapel, with Chairman George F. Longins, of the Fulton county commission, explaining the benefits of the league program, and Mrs. C. Campbell and Milton counties, and Tate Wright, of Athens, executive secretary of the Georgia Association of County Commissioners, asserting that further mergers at this time are impractical.

Edwin F. Johnson, commissioner-elect of Fulton county, speaking on the "Human Side of County Government," said that the program, as did William J. Threlkell and Professor J. T. Askew, of Athens.

The morning session in the ballroom of the Piedmont hotel opens at 10 o'clock, and the program of the work for the day will be adopted, including a budget made up of "quotas" pledged by the various local leagues for support of state and national programs. The program will be given by the director of the third year, Mrs. A. M. Roan, of Atlanta, and by Congressman Robert Ramo, of the two major items of the league program, "The League's Program" and "The Merit System in Government."

At 1 o'clock the department of international co-operation will sponsor a luncheon at the Piedmont hotel. No persons will be seated without reservations. Following this luncheon the newly elected officers will be installed, and the post-convention session will close the two-day conference on governmental affairs.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—(P)—On prices moved irregularly during today's trading, with advances followed by reaction, and a southern selling and liquidation. Market contracts, after advancing to 12.24, broke to 12.24 in late trading and closed at 12.26. The general market closed stiffer, with prices 10 points higher on all months except October which showed a net loss of 10 points.

er liquidation. Offerings were readily taken and prices steadied, making

Net gains of about 5 to 6 points in selective positions. Demand then tapered off and the market sagged during the afternoon. The market apparently continued to feel the influence of the firm spot situation in the south. In October was sold more freely in active trading and there was some liquidation by early buyers in that region. That delivery sold off to 1 1/2 to 1 3/4 points lower, and the close was 15 points net lower, or 32 points lower than the close was compared with a difference of 17 points at the close of the previous day.

Nothing was heard of any change in the southern spot situation, and the evidence clearly found no special indication of any change in the stock markets. General business believed to be restricted by uncertainty as to the cotton acreage program for 1935 and a disposition of spot developments in the southern wheat situation. Exports today 44,000 bales. Cotton futures, 1,395.45c; farthest season, 1,400.00c; near, 1,395.00c. "Net receipts" 47,456; United States port stocks 3,158,334.

Price per cwt unchanged to 2 points due to a glut of cables. Demand posed 9 points net loss compared with yesterday's nominal losing price.

The opening was steady as Liverpool cables came in about as due to sterling was firm. Private cables as well as the scattered selling in the Liverpool market met out of most of the leading London-Manchester cable there was fairly good demand for cloth and yarns.

Liverpool is due on New Orleans tomorrow 1 to 2 penny points due.

JURY DEFERS ACTION IN FIVE 'RED' CASES

DeKalb Body Adjoins Until Friday Morning; Riley and Summers Indicted.

The DeKalb grand jury, which has been in special session this week, adjourned Tuesday afternoon until Friday morning.

day morning at 9 o'clock, without taking any action in the cases of five alleged communists held in DeKalb jail on charges of disseminating insurrectionary literature and inciting to riot, a capital offense under Georgia law.

Among 22 true bills returned by the grand jury Tuesday were indictments for robbery against Robert Riley and Hoyt Summers, already sentenced to death and life imprisonment, respectively, for the ride-rob killing of Max Sjöblom in Atlanta on September 22.

The DeKalb bills against the youths charge them with the holdup and robbery of J. H. Harkins, of Forest Park, in Kirkwood on the same night as the Sjöblom killing. They are alleged to have taken Harkins behind the East Lake Country Club and tied him to a tree, while they stole his money and car.

Other Tuesday indictments included bank robbery charges against Julius McKinney, William McKinney and J. H. Thompson, for the October 6 hold-up of the Bank of Tucker and charges of robbery, burglary and auto theft against Olin Moore and John Sewell, for the theft of an automobile in Avondale and the burglary of the filling station. The youths are alleged to have wrecked the stolen car on Ponce de Leon avenue later.

Other true bills returned were against minor offenders, as were the four no bills.

SMALL MILLS REFUSE TO OBEY LUMBER CODE

Southern Operators Repudiate Cost Protection Provision of Agreement.

COLUMBUS, Miss., Oct. 30.—(AP)—The Small Mill Pine Association, composed of operators in Mississippi, Alabama and portions of Florida and Georgia, in session here today repudiated the cost protection provision of the national lumber code.

Members of the association adopted a resolution offered by the board of directors that effective tomorrow "we are adopting the custom of free trading, that term meaning that we will establish our own prices on our own products."

Middleton L. Wooten, of Columbus, executive secretary of the association, said the action was the first to be taken by any lumber producers definitely and "openly" casting aside minimum price stipulations which for months has been the target of attack of lumbermen.

The action was taken, the resolution said, because "in our opinion violations of the cost protection provision of the lumber code in the southern pine division are now so common and flagrant and prevail to such an extent that the retention of fixed minimum prices inflict an unjust and severe penalty upon the shipper who is actually complying with this feature of the code."

Glass such as oven ware is made of is now used for bobbins in silk and rayon mills, and is found to be clean and durable.

Alabamian's Life Saved When Bullet Hits Button

DECATUR, Ala., Oct. 30.—(AP)—An overall button today was a prized souvenir of Horace Poff—he believes it saved his life.

Poff, filling station attendant on a highway just south of here, was held up last night by two men. One became incensed at Poff and fired point blank at him. The bullet struck the button and glanced, inflicting only a flesh wound, instead of penetrating his chest near the heart. The men obtained approximately $20.

LONE WORLD SAILOR BELIEVED LOST IN GALE

ANCUNO, Chile, Oct. 30.—(AP)—A Hansen, lone Norwegian round-the-world sailor, is believed in waterfront circles to be lost with his 25-foot sloop, Mary Jane.

The fact that an unusually severe storm lashed the coast of Chile after his departure from this port together with his failure to be reported in the last four months has convinced observers that he has perished.

Hansen came here after crossing the Atlantic, touching at Miami and proceeding to South America. Hansen arrived here last June '18.
